

Powers Of President Found Sufficient To Cope With Bomb Raid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government emerged today from "Operation Alert 1955" with a clear decision to rely on the "inherent powers" of the presidency to mobilize the country under any attempted real knockout attack.

This decision appeared to rule out any possibility that the administration would seek standby powers from Congress to invoke a swift "freeze" of wages and prices and to assume control of materials and production.

Officials Leave Hideouts

Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming said the decision to rely instead on the President's inherent powers, as part of which Eisenhower invoked a pretended state of martial law, was the "most important" of the three-day test.

The President rested at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm today and the remainder of the government had returned to Washington from the 31 hideouts to which 15,000 key officials and workers fled Wednesday in advance of the simulated atom and hydrogen bomb attack. From the hideouts they went through the motions of putting a theoretically stricken nation back on its feet.

Speaking from one of the command posts, Flemming discussed the test with newsmen as the operation ended.

Major Cities Ruined

Instead of setting up a reservoir of powers in advance, he said, the President at the moment of attack would invoke his "full and inherent powers." Flemming said Eisenhower made the decision only after he was advised of "the full facts of the devastating attack" which was simulated in the test exercise.

The hypothetical "emergency" under which Eisenhower made his decision was dire enough. Sixty-one major cities had been theoretically flattened with atomic and hydrogen bombs. Some 14 1/2 million persons were presumed dead or injured, and more casualties might come from fall out.

The dispersed dealt with 500 assumed problems which might arise in the first 30 days of a real H-bomb catastrophe. At the end, Eisenhower said he had taken "great encouragement" from their performance.

Stores Reopen In Buenos Aires As Revolt Ends

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Armed troops patrolled downtown Buenos Aires today as stores shuttered by South America's bloodiest revolt in many years cautiously started to open again for business.

President Peron set up his headquarters in the Army Ministry, surrounded by military chiefs whose forces put down the naval uprising Thursday.

Millions of Argentine workers went back to their jobs after a 24-hour general strike called in mourning for the 360 persons killed and nearly 1,000 wounded in the short but violent action.

Resistance Continues

Appealing to the nation for calm, Peron said in a broadcast Friday night the revolt had been put down and peace prevailed throughout the country.

(A radio station claiming to be a clandestine rebel transmitter, heard in Montevideo, Uruguay, reported widespread areas of continued resistance, however. It said naval forces at Puerto Belgrano, in southern Buenos Aires Province, had risen against the government and that two warships had put into that base under orders of Rear Adm. Anibal O. Oliveri. This officer was replaced Friday as Peron's navy minister.

Ministers Meet Molotov Monday In San Francisco

NEW YORK (AP)—The Western Big Three foreign ministers say they are hopeful that "with persistence much can be achieved in the coming months toward the goal of peace."

The hopeful note was sounded Friday in a communique issued by the American, British and French foreign ministers after two days of talks here.

Foundation Laid

The meetings were a prelude to the Big Four parley with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Monday in San Francisco.

The Big Three communique further said the ministers were "confident that the common policies which they and their Allies have successfully pursued in the past will provide the foundation for further progress and the settlement of outstanding problems."

Like the New York session the Big Four meeting on the West Coast will be in preparation for the chiefs of state "summit" meeting at Geneva July 18.

The Big Three foreign ministers were joined in their final deliberations by West German Chancellor Adenauer.

Three Issues Pending

A German spokesman said Adenauer had informed the United States, Britain and France it will be early fall before he will go to Moscow in response to a Soviet invitation he has accepted in principle.

The spokesman attributed the delay to the time needed to study and explore topics to be discussed in Moscow.

Unofficially, it was understood this exploration consists largely of learning the Soviet attitude on three issues of prime importance to the Germans before Adenauer pays the visit.

They are:

German war prisoners still held by the Russians.

Reunification of Communist-controlled Eastern Germany with Western Germany, and

The question of Germany's eastern border, from which Soviet Russia and Poland have annexed territory.

Michigan Keeps Up Polio Shots During Summer

LANSING (AP)—Michigan will go ahead with polio vaccinations of the "highest risk" five-to-nine age group during the summer months if the vaccine becomes available.

Dr. Albert Heustis, state health commissioner, made this decision Friday on recommendation of a governor's special advisory committee composed of physicians, pharmacists and public health officers.

Risk Increased

With only one negative vote, the committee voted to proceed with the vaccination during the polio "season" despite risks of public outcry.

"When you vaccinate during the warm months you have an increased risk of developing polio coincident with the injection program and then the vaccine will be erroneously blamed," Dr. Heustis said. "If that should happen in a small area there may be some hysteria, but we believe that we have much more to gain by protecting the children."

Halted In Some States

Dr. Heustis accepted the committee recommendation that state and local health officers and local physicians consult before suspending the vaccination program in an area which experiences an epidemic of polio during the vaccination period.

He said there was a possibility that federal health authorities will fix a level of polio cases at which point vaccination should stop.

Some states have decided to halt vaccinations during the summer months.

Congressmen Dig Into Smut Racket

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Kefauver subcommittee today digs into a $90 million dollar a year smut racket which does much of its business with juveniles.

The subcommittee held over for one more day the hearing which was to have closed Friday.

Subcommittee Counsel James H. Bobo said the Midwest and Southern California apparently are the hotbeds of the lewd art and literature trade.

Some of the exhibits include letters from worried mothers who said their children had received the pornography, often not knowing exactly what they were ordering.

One letter read: "my son aged 11 filled out a coupon for free photographs which he found in a sports magazine. When the picture arrived, they were nothing but filth. He brought them to his father and me. Now he's on a list and keeps getting advertisements for all sorts of lewd things x x x."

One of the advertisements stated: "half-price clearance sale. There is legal action pending against us in Washington calling our pictures obscene, lewd and lascivious. We may soon be out of business, so break the piggy bank and get our obscene, lewd and lascivious pictures."

"Strange loves" was the title of another one, all addressed to teenagers. Playing cards, featuring the famed nude calendar pose of Marilyn Monroe, also were advertised by the so-called "mail order art houses."

Eisenhower Policies Top Issue For 1956

DETROIT (AP)—Vice President Nixon says the economic policies of President Eisenhower will be the "great issue" of the 1956 presidential election.

"In 1956," Nixon told the Young Republican national convention last night, "we shall have a showdown battle between those who would continue the American economic policies which have been put into effect by this Administration and which have worked so well."

A defeat for the Republican party could mean only a return to the "Truman economic policies," he said. And, he added, "the basic theory of the New Deal was that every problem should be solved by government action."

In contrast, the vice president said, the Eisenhower theory is that "the way to the greatest prosperity is to reduce government activity and encourage private enterprise."

Nixon described the President as "the most consistently popular President America has ever had."

He said if Mr. Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, were to run again today "Ike would beat Adlai Stevenson by a bigger vote than in 1952."

A chant of "We Want Ike" broke the crowd of 1,200 that attended the $10-a-plate dinner as Nixon accepted a convention mission to give the President a scroll signed by 1,000 supporters urging the "Eisenhower-Nixon team" to run again in 1956.

The scroll stretched 50 feet. Nixon said he would deliver it to the White House Monday.

President Works On U.N. Address

GETTYSBURG, PA. (AP)—President Eisenhower turned to work today on a major address which he will make at U.N. 10th anniversary ceremonies in San Francisco Monday.

The President planned to study a preliminary draft of the speech at his country home here.

The President arrived at his farm Friday after concluding "Operation Alert" with the prayerful hope the United States never will be hit by an atomic attack.

The President plans to return to Washington Sunday morning in time to leave by plane for San Francisco about 3 p.m. EDT. He will return to the capital from the West Coast Tuesday.

Moscow Ousters Are Kept Secret

MOSCOW (AP)—Walter Wamsley, U. S. minister in charge of the embassy, disclosed today that three American Army attaches expelled by the Russians left here more than two weeks ago.

Expulsion of the men was one of the best kept secrets of the Moscow diplomatic colony, and apparently was connected with an American desire to keep things as smooth as possible in advance of the forthcoming Big Four top level meetings in Geneva.

Wamsley is head of the embassy while Ambassador Charles Bohlen is in the United States in connection with a Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

The three expelled are Lt. Col. John S. Benson of Milton, Mass., Capt. William R. Stroud of Kewanee, Ill., and Capt. Walter Mule of Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

The Soviet press has not carried the story.

New York Girl, 15, Takes Death Leap

NEW YORK (AP)—After quarreling noisily with her father about the hours she had been keeping, a 15-year-old girl plunged to her death from her apartment window, police reported.

Daisy Homs and her father had argued so loudly Friday night that police were summoned. They left when the dispute appeared to have quieted.

Called back two hours later, they found the girl had jumped or fallen from the fourth-floor East Harlem apartment.

Illinois Boy Dies After High Ride

CHICAGO (AP)—An 18-year-old farm youth who complained of suffering a dizzy spell while on a high ride at an amusement park Friday night died a few minutes after he stepped off the ride.

Theodore Morris, 18, of near Elgin, Ill., was on the ride with his brother, William, who said that Theodore had complained of being dizzy during the ride. The youth fainted after he stepped off the ride and died at a first aid station.

Damen avenue police said that the cause of the youth's death had not been determined immediately.

Revolution In Argentina Described By Eyewitness

EDITORS NOTE: This graphic eyewitness account of the grim hours that marked the bloodiest revolution in Argentina's recent history was written by Associated Press staffer Sam Summerlin, now assigned to Latin America. Summerlin served as a Korean war correspondent. This dispatch was received after normal communications from Argentina were resumed.

By SAM SUMMERLIN

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—I was strolling through the noonday crowds past Metropolitan Cathedral when it happened.

A plane suddenly zoomed out of the gray overcast and an explosion ripped the air with the suddenness of a thunderclap.

The crowd around me stood bewildered for a moment. Then there were two more explosions. They scattered in panic as they realized bombs were dropping.

Bullets Scatter Crowd

I ran up the street behind the cathedral toward the quaint-looking pink Government House. At the corner, crowds crouched against the walls as trucks whipped by loaded with men in khaki.

The trucks screeched to a halt behind government house and troops scampered out, rifles raised. They raced four abreast down the avenue toward us and some of the crowd retreated around the corner to keep out of range.

Gunfire crackled and a man nearby fell to the pavement. Friends grabbed him shouting for an ambulance.

Cheers Greet Tanks

Troops dashed across the wide open boulevard and into the side entrance of the government house, as black smoke spiraled up from nearby explosions.

For nearly two hours the gun battle raged.

Civilians scampering across the streets were caught in the cross fire.

Shortly after 2 p.m. two tanks rolled up through the plaza, their machine guns chattering.

They were greeted with cheers as crowds of Peronista workers swarmed towards the opposing forces. Some civilians had rifles, but most of them were unarmed.

Then, out of the sky roared rebel planes in a second raid on Government House. Bombs splattered death and destruction. Smoke enveloped the scene like a black fog.

Bodies In Streets

This was the terrifying moment when most of the victims died. Panic again seized those who had just been tasting victory.

Police swarmed in, chasing crowds out of the plaza and up the side streets. Bodies were strewn about the square as ambulance sirens wailed.

The panic passed when the planes vanished. Soon afterwards navy headquarters surrendered.

Later the curious came out of their hiding places and stared at the bomb craters and the debris.

But the rebels hadn't said goodbye yet. As the crowds milled around Government House the attacking planes swooped in for one last run.

The crowds scurried for cover under army trucks and tall trees. Machinegun bullets cut tracks in the pavement, then the roar of the planes disappeared, and the people got up again. The battle was finally over.

Red China Frees 3 U.S. Turncoats

TOKYO (AP)—Red China said Saturday it was sending home three Americans and two Belgians who chose to remain in Red China after the Korean War.

A Peiping radio broadcast said 16 others who refused repatriation could come home, too, anytime they choose—and hinted strongly they're homesick.

Fliers Not Mentioned

There was no mention of 11 American fliers held by the Peiping government who were captured late in the war when a B29 bomber was shot down. Four Sabre Jet pilots also captured late in the war were released recently at Hong Kong and have reached home.

Those to be released are:

Cpl. Lewis W. Griggs, of 406 Kickapoo St., Jacksonville, Tex.

Cpl. Otho G. Bell, 494, Rt. 5, Olympia, Wash.

Cpl. William A. Cowart, 503 Benton St., Dalton, Ga.

Roger Devriendt, Westvlaanderen, Belgium.

Louis Verdyck, Antwerp, Belgium.

The broadcast did not say when or where the five would be released but said "we are going through the formalities for their exit and making all necessary arrangements."

Others Not Restless

The five will leave China when these are completed, the broadcast said.

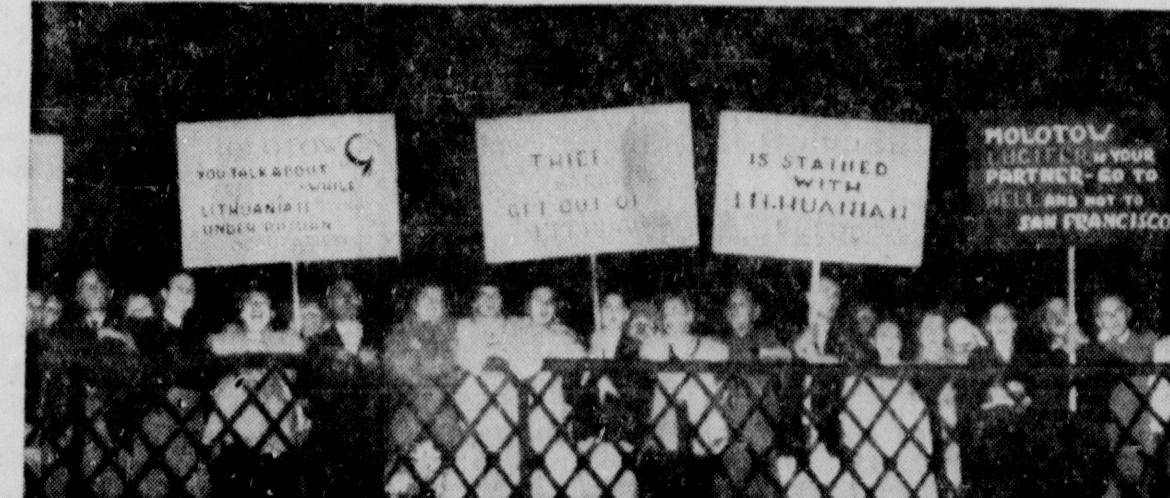

Of the original 22 U.N. soldiers who chose to go to Red China one died. The Red radio hinted strongly the other 16 are restless and anxious to come home too, dissatisfied with life in a strange country with lower living standards.

Of the original 22, one was British, 21 were Americans.

The broadcast said the remaining 16 could leave any time they wish and admitted "difficulties" in keeping them happy in China.

Beano Party Raided

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—John W. Rettig, 56, first ward supervisor in Grand Rapids, was charged with operating a gambling establishment after a police raiding squad broke up a beano party Friday night. Four other men, who police said worked there, also were arrested. All were released on $200 bond.

Italian Count, 75, Weds Princess, 14

LUCCA, Italy (AP)—A 75-year-old count married a 14-year-old Italian princess in a private ceremony in this walled city Friday night.

The aged bridegroom, an amateur botanist, is among the wealthiest men in this region. His fortune is estimated at over 11 million dollars.

Born in Pisa in 1881 of Swiss ancestry, the Count was a widower without children.

The ceremony took place late at night in the little church of Monte San Quirico, near Lucca.

Only a few immediate relatives attended. Not even close friends were invited.

The couple slipped away to Switzerland immediately afterward. News of the marriage leaked out only today and caused a sensation in Italy.

Aerialist Lives In 55-Foot Fall

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A high wire performer survived a 55-foot fall from a swaying pole and is reported in good condition in Atlantic City Hospital today.

Thirty-eight-year-old Robert Atterbury of Minneapolis, Minn., toppled to the stage Friday night while performing at the First Water Circus of the summer at Steel Pier.

Three thousand spectators watched in horror as Atterbury lost his balance while climbing to the top of the 55-foot pole on which he was performing with his wife, Lauren, 25, and sister-in-law, Shirley Peterson, 21.

The two women were at the 25-foot level and Atterbury was 10 feet from the top.

He suffered a fractured pelvis and heel and bruised ribs.

Pentagon Comes To Helicopter Age

WASHINGTON (AP)—The helicopter age is coming to the Pentagon, speeded by the just-concluded Operation Alert.

The Army plans to install a helicopter "landing pad" on the west side of the Defense Department headquarters, to be used when officials need to take off or land quickly close to their offices.

Sportsmen Elect Criqui President

Michigan United Conservation Club members headed down the home stretch of their 18th annual convention in Escanaba today with Gov. G. Mennen Williams scheduled to address them this morning in Bonifas Auditorium, election of officers this afternoon and the annual banquet this evening in St. Joseph School Hall.

The convention heard the state's view of hunting prospects for fall yesterday and a warning from a federal official that laws are not a panacea for conservation problems and that deer herd control by a state legislature is illogical.

Yesterday's business sessions showed the sportsmen wary of involvement in local conservation controversies and anxious for the scientific and not the political approach to conservation policy. They tabled a request of two Copper Country conservation clubs that waters of Keweenaw Bay within the boundaries of Baraga County be closed to commercial fishing except for herring and bait fish. The presentation was controversial, sportsmen vs. commercial fishermen. Speaking of waleys in Chicago Lake, Iron County, and planting of fingerling trout in U. P. streams were denied approval, but endorsed for study. Identification of ice fishing tips was rejected. It is illegal to leave tips unattended.

Dr. Allen To Talk

Besides the Governor's appearance today the program called for a women's luncheon at the House of Ludington and a train trip to the ore docks; an address on game management by Dr. Durward L. Allen, professor of wildlife management at Purdue University and a talk on sportsmen's clubs by Lester Woerpel, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Federation of Conservation Clubs.

The convention yesterday nominated for election by balloting today: Atty. Francis B. Criqui of St. Ignace to be president, succeeding Bernard W. Ansley of Lansing. Also nominated: for vice president, with three to be elected, Ken Dahlka, Trenton; Lew Morse, Lowell; George R. Akerley, Muskegon; Charles A. Roberts, Kent City; Howard Barton, Traverse City and J. H. Kitchell, Grand Haven.

For regional vice presidents, one from each district: District 1, James L. Rouman, Escanaba; 2, Al Chinnery, Ludington; 3, Ray W. Gauthier, Detroit, and Amos J. Rheume, Detroit. Treasurer, D. Earl Kimble, Hillsdale. Directors at large, 6 to be elected: Wendell Ball, Paw Paw; Gilbert J. Schmitz, Detroit; Lynn F. Baldwin, Eaton Rapids; Howard Brown, Bessemer; Dr. Mason, F. McGuirk, Bad Axe; William DeYoung, Grand Rapids. National Wildlife Federation representative, Howard Shelley, Pontiac.

Authorize Officer

The convention yesterday authorized the MUCC board of directors to engage a legislative representative to promote the interests of conservation at Lansing. This work has been done on a volunteer basis by officers of the organization but need for an on-the-job representative to inform MUCC clubs of legislative proposals was reported. Financing of the service was not immediately determined.

Harry Ruhl, chief of the Game Division, Department of Conservation, reported that "the pheasant situation is happy. We had a kill of 1,100,000 in Michigan in 1954, not an all time high, but large and 1955 breeding population is 10 per cent over 1954. Quail are at a high level in the southern third of the Lower Peninsula. There has been no open season for a long time and none is advocated, but we get a lot of inquiries.

"The cottontail kill in 1954 dropped some and we expected the decline to continue. Snowshoe hares are at the bottom of their cycle or near it. We had a high kill in 1939 and 1949 of 500,000 and a low in 1944 of 156,000. Last year we killed 206,000. We expect next fall's luck to be not too good.

Grouse Are Down

"Ruffed grouse increase and decrease in 10 or 11 year cycle. The Upper Peninsula is down and spring counts show a moderate drop from last year. Populations still higher in the Lower Peninsula than in the U. P. There are more in the Lower Peninsula where there has been heavy hunting. We are considering a bag cut from 5 to 3 a day. We didn't the last time we had a low, but the season is longer now and I think maybe we should do it.

"Sharptails are showing a moderate U. P. decrease this year and a slight increase in the Lower Peninsula. We anticipate a further decrease. Don't forget the woodcock, I think there is a surplus that could be used. It must be done early, most woodcock have left Michigan by October 20 in normal weather years.

"I'm pessimistic about prairie chickens; there are relatively few colonies left in the Upper Peninsula. In the early 1930s around Seney they reached a population climax in burned over areas were as many as 3,000 could be seen in a day. Now they are practically gone, despite a 90,000 acre Seney game refuge. There are not so many fires and the forest is filling in. I think they are going to pass out in the Upper Peninsula.

More Ducks Sighted

"On waterfowl I'm fairly optimistic. There is lots of water on the Canadian breeding grounds and everything looks encouraging. We'll probably have better hunting than we did a year ago," said Ruhl.

"It is going to be more difficult for the state to buy land for marshes, wildlife areas and other recreational uses. There is more competition. Everyone wants to own a piece of land and live on it or play on it. It's a legitimate desire, but it makes it tougher to acquire public lands. We have bought 700,000 acres with the game protection funds, 22,000 acres in the last two years. There seems to be a feeling that the government has got too much land, but we're glad to show the people what they've got and to justify it.

"One question of our wild turkey planting experiment was will they winter. The answer is yes. They have also got to lay eggs and we know of at least one clutch that was hatched. Some have associated with farmers' chickens and gone the way of all flesh. It's still an unproved experiment."

The state released 208 wild turkeys downstate last year. The convention asked the Federal Fish & Wildlife Service to minimize killing of game fish at electric weirs in streams by prohibiting fishing near the weirs and charging them only when lampreys are migrating.

Ask Size Increased

Increase in the legal size of muskel lunge from 30 to 32 inches was urged.

"Legislatures can no more regulate deer by law than they can stop cancer by the same means."

Speaking through proxy, Ernest Swift, Washington, D. C., assistant director of the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service, told delegates yesterday that "you sportsmen are attempting to fool yourselves with a panacea of laws. You need good, sound, basic laws for financing and for building a conservation department, but not laws of regulation."

Swift came to the defense of "abused" state conservation agencies and warned sportsmen of the dangers confronting conservation of the nation's natural resources.

Former Wisconsin Director

"Civilization has thrown down the gauntlet. If groups such as this do not meet the challenge, wildlife will be wiped off the American continent," he said.

Swift's message was delivered by James McBroom, Washington, D. C., chief of the Branch of River Basins Studies of the F&W. He explained that Swift, who is in charge of developing information necessary for migratory waterfowl regulation, was attending Central and Pacific Flyway Council meetings in Moran, Wyo.

Swift, who formerly was Wisconsin's conservation director, said it was illogical for legislators to set regulations governing deer herd control. He said it would be just as sensible for ordinary citizens to hold a hearing to decide whether a doctor should perform an operation in a public hospital.

'Old Spanish Cusom'

In supporting the state's conservation agency, Swift said: "Some of you distrust the judgment of your conservation department in its management of Michigan resources. Distrust of public agencies is an old Spanish custom and a favorite indoor sport of the American public. Your mistrust in conservation is oftentimes based on your aversion to the ungarished facts. While your department races the ever-increasing day to day complexities of managing resources, sportsmen indulge in wishful thinking and Utopian dreams.

"Your department has to overcome the abuse which the citizens of Michigan collectively impose not only on wildlife, but on the land itself. Honestly accepting the responsibility for pollution, erosion and all the other follies heaped upon the resources is a hard pill to swallow."

Swift, in warning of the need for an aroused public interest in preservation of natural resources, declared:

Attacks Mediocrity

"Our structure of government, our social philosophies and the husbandry of our national resources are one and inseparable. They are the elements basic to the perpetuity of an enlightened civilization. They must be geared to a common purpose, keeping in mind that a nation is only as strong as the individuals of which it is composed."

"If America is to survive, mediocrity is not good enough. Today's attitude toward life does not emphasize this credo. Our present welfare state does not exact sufficiently severe penalties for mistakes and lack of vigilance. We are no longer selective. We not only tolerate mediocrity; we allow thousands to capitalize on it. Certainly the industrial levitans which have been developed are not the entire answer; they too closely typify the pagan god best known in American parlance as 'The Fast Buck,' and worshiped today in the American household instead of the Trinity."

"We have an issue before us: Have the people of the United States the will to survive and endure? Not as creatures and victims of the culture they have created, but as beneficiaries of it? Our culture found root in the outdoors, and on a continent of vast and sublime proportions. We are allowing this cultural heritage to be destroyed before our eyes. Definite and prompt action is vital to save what remains."

Father Leckman Plans Jubilee

STEPHENSON—Reverend Father John J. Leckman, Pastor of St. Frederick's Church, Daggett, on Wednesday, June 22, at 10:30, will offer a Solemn High Mass of Thanksgiving in St. Frederick's Church, the occasion being the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood of the Catholic Church. The Most Reverend Thomas L. Noa, D. D., Bishop of the Diocese of Marquette will come to Daggett for the occasion to preside at the mass in Cappa Magna and preach the jubilee sermon. Reverend Francis Geynet of St. Anne's Church, Menominee will be the arch-priest and Reverend Victor Karch, pastor of St. Adelbert's Parish, Menominee and Reverend Caspar Dounenburg, chaplain of the St. Joseph-Lloyd Hospital, will serve as deacons of honor to Bishop Noa.

Father Leckman will be assisted at the altar by Reverend William Schick, pastor of Holy Trinity Church, Birch Creek as deacon of the Mass and Reverend Gino Ferraro, pastor of St. Bruno's Church, Nadeau, as subdeacon of the Mass. Reverend Arnold L. Casanova, Administrator of St. Christopher's Church, Marquette, and secretary to Bishop Noa will be master of ceremonies at the throne and Reverend Walter Franczek, pastor of St. Francis Xavier's Church, Spalding, will be master of ceremonies for the Mass. Altar boys of St. Frederick's Church will act as minor ministers and the Senior Choir under the direction of the choir director, Richard Lucke, will sing the mass. In the sanctuary also will be Right Reverend Monsignor of the Diocese of Marquette. The priests will occupy seats reserved for them near the sanctuary. A procession of altar boys, priests, monsignori will escort Bishop Noa from the rectory to the front entrance of the church.

Rev. John J. Leckman

The members of Saint Mary's Altar Society of the Daggett parish will serve a dinner for the clergy in the parish hall at 12 noon. On Wednesday night at 7 a dinner complimentary to Father Leckman for members of the parish and friends of the jubilee will be served in the parish hall.

Father Leckman was ordained on June 18, 1905 and has served as a chaplain in the United States Army in World War I. He came to the Daggett Parish in 1945.

U. P. Dentists Will Meet Here

The 38th annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Dental Society will be held in Escanaba on Friday and Saturday, June 24-25, with headquarters at the House of Ludington.

Dr. J. C. Gorrill of Ironwood is president of the U. P. Dental Society. Dr. G. E. Kelly of Gladstone is vice president, and Dr. Vernon K. Johnson of Escanaba is secretary-treasurer.

Members of the five district organization comprising the Upper Peninsula Dental Society will attend the annual meeting with their wives. A special program of entertainment is being arranged for the ladies. Dental hygienists and assistants are invited to attend the sessions.

Registration will be in the lobby of the House of Ludington. The banquet and dancing is scheduled Friday evening, a buffet luncheon will be held Saturday noon, and the annual golf tournament, one of the features of the social program, will be held Saturday afternoon at the Escanaba Golf Club, with trophies and prizes awarded on completion of the tournament.

Kenneth Hacterson, representative of Allis Chalmers Corporation, will be the principal speaker at the Friday night banquet. The annual business meeting and election of officers will be held Friday afternoon.

Dinner Honors Veteran Mailmen

BARK RIVER—Two rural mail carriers who are retiring, Lawrence Bruce who served Bark River Rte. 2 for 32 years, and Herbert Gray, who has a record of 36 years' service in the Cooks area, were honored by the Upper Peninsula Rural Mail Carriers Association and their wives at a dinner in Salem Lutheran Church parlors Saturday evening.

Postmaster Henry W. Bovle, the staff of the local Post Office and Bark River businessmen also were guests.

Decorations for the dinner which was served by the women of the church were bouquets of flowers in the form of ships and place cards were miniature mailmen.

Ed Forsman of Crystal Falls was toastmaster. Numbers included a novelty duet, "I Have Been Working as a Mailman," by Evelyn Bergstrom and Katherine Deloughary, a poem, "A Soldier's Soliloquy," by Mrs. Frank Peterson and anecdotes of the horse and buggy days by the two veteran mailmen.

The honor guests were presented with purses, I. R. Nelson making the presentation.

Menominee May Quit 2-County Health Unit

MENOMINEE—Continued participation of Menominee County in the Delta-Menominee Health Department was under attack at Thursday's June meeting of the Menominee County Board of Supervisors because of the increasing cost to the county.

Upshot of the discussion was the naming of Board Chairman Albert Kipfer and Mayor James A. Spies, finance committee chairman, to go to Marquette County and study its health set-up to determine whether it would be more economical for Menominee County to operate its own department instead of participating in a district setup with Delta County.

In the interim, Delta County will be advised of Menominee County's decision and also of the board's unofficial agreement to limit this year's appropriation to the same amount as was appropriated for the current year. The Health Department operates on a fiscal year from July 1 to June 30, while the county's fiscal year runs from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31.

The health set-up came up for discussion after the board was advised that the Department was asking an increase from $18,519 for the current year to $21,265 for the ensuing year as Menominee County's share in its operation. "Delta County's share would be $26,000 as compared to $22,000 last year, as the appropriations are prorated on the basis of population."

Kipfer who is chairman of the Delta-Menominee Health Board, said the increase this year was due, in part to a decrease in federal aid, as well as upward adjustments of salaries for the Department's personnel.

Spies, who is also a member of the Health Board along with Supt. Arvid E. Revall of Daggett, pointed out that the Department would have a balance of $5,000 at the end of the fiscal year, yet was asking for an additional $5,000 over its last year's total. He expressed the opinion the appropriation should not be increased and that Delta County should be advised, so that it could be guided accordingly in setting up its appropriation for the Health Department.

Marquette County was selected for the study because it is the only U. P. county operating its Health Department independently instead of as a district department with one or more other counties.

Playgrounds To Open Here Next Wednesday

Escanaba's extensive summer recreation program for youngsters will begin Wednesday, June 22, with the opening of playgrounds at Royce and Webster parks.

Announcement of the program, for the summer was made today by Art Petersen, city recreation director.

Play equipment has been installed at both playgrounds with teeter-totters, swings, merry-go-rounds and slides available. There will also be arts and crafts, baseball, horseshoe, tennis, basketball, shuffle board and other games offered for the boys and girls.

200 Ball Players

In charge of the recreation league baseball program will be Pete Kutches, junior student at the University of Wyoming. He will take over the direction in the absence of Paul Vardigan who will attend summer session of Wisconsin State College in Milwaukee.

The rec leagues will include over 200 youngsters in the Beginners League (5 to 10 years old), the Junior League (11 to 13), and the Cadet League (14 to 17).

Teams in the Beginners are Kiwanis, St. Joe, Rotary and Lions; in the Junior Kiddie Corner, Paper Mill, Coca Cola, Chet's and Scott Dairy; in the Cadet, Coca Cola and Hurley's Hurricanes.

Baseball Schedules

The recreation league program stresses sportsmanship and youngsters are given instructions on how to play various team positions. They are given fundamental lessons in how to run, field, throw and bat.

The schedule of instruction and games at Royce Park follows:

Monday—Beginners baseball instruction, 9:30-11:30. Juniors baseball instruction, 1-3. Tuesday—Beginners League games, 9:30-11:30. Junior League games, 1-3.

Wednesday—Same as Monday.

Editorials—

Postal Clerks Suggest Way To Improve U.P. Mail Service

Progress in so many fields of American communications has given most of us the cozy feeling that we're doing just dandy fine in this line, but a closer look says it isn't so. At least it isn't so about the movement of the United States mails in the Upper Peninsula and elsewhere, too.

The public isn't apt to judge the speed, which means the efficiency, of postal service closely because it is not acutely interested and isn't in a very good spot to do so. A letter from overseas delivered only a day or two after posting impresses us mightily and we are apt to project this impression to the belief that all the mails have been similarly speeded by the increasing speed of modern transportation generally. But it isn't so.

This is a time of hodgepodge and patchwork mail haul. Some moves by airplane, some by trains, some by trucks, some by messenger, and some by highway post office. Some of the segments of this system move the mails very fast, others poke. The patchwork of connections is makeshift and not very satisfactory. The simple truth is that the mails don't move with the speed and dispatch that they did when this area was served by many more trains than it is today. As the passenger train service diminishes, the problem of the Post Office increases.

Let us illustrate. Mail for Menominee from White Pine, the new copper mining community in Ontonagon County, moves by truck to Pembine, Wis., where it is put on a Soo Line train which carries it away from its destination to Gladstone. A mail messenger carries the mail from Gladstone to Escanaba, where it is put aboard a North Western Railway train for movement to Menominee. When the mail is at Pembine it is much closer to Menominee than when it is at Gladstone, but the means of short route movement are lacking. This is not an unusual situation, but rather typical of the dislocations caused by the current change from mail haul all by train.

Announcement that the South Shore Railroad proposed discontinuance of railway postoffice on two trains led the U. P. Branch of the National Transportation Association meeting recently at Rapid River to propose highway post office service in the Upper Peninsula. The association is composed of railway mail clerks.

There has been no highway post office service in the U. P. but it is effective elsewhere. Simply, it provides mail trucks for movement of the mail and while enroute the mail is sorted by clerks, just as it is in the railway mail cars. When it arrives at destination it is already sorted and ready for delivery. The declining railway postal service is causing a pileup of mail at Chicago and other terminals which causes a day layover for much of it before it is sorted and dispatched again. This is because mail arrives unsorted and must be worked in the big central postoffices, where rate-of-work tempo is reported slower than on the rail mail cars.

It is regrettable to suggest substitution of highway post office service for rail service. The railways are vital to U. P. transportation and the mail provides a part of their income. But if use and income do not justify maintenance of some trains a substitute for their mail haul must be found and the highway post office looks best to the men who work the mails.

Words, Wit &amp; Wisdom

By William Morris

Today's word quiz is designed to test your ability to recognize words similar to one another in meaning. Below you will find two groups of ten words each. The first group is numbered 1, 2, 3, etc. The second group is lettered A, B, C, etc.

For each word in the first group you will find a word almost the same meaning (a synonym) in the second group. Thus the word numbered 1 may mean practically the same as the word lettered F. Write this down as 1F. When you have written down all the answers, check against the correct pairings at the bottom.

Try And Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

Wilson Mizner, sometime playwright, sometime confidence man, said many a witty thing during his lifetime, and Alva Johnston has preserved most of them for posterity in "The Legendary Mizners." He told off one conceited showman, with, "A demitasse cup would fit over your head like a sunbonnet." Of a long-nosed, Ichabod Cranish character he declared, "He's the only man I know who can take a shower and smoke a cigar at the same time," also, "I'd like to pick him up by the feet and plow a furrow with him." Recalling a Klondike associate who had frozen to death while tying his shoelaces, Mizner mourned, "We had to bury him in a drum."

Mizner's departure from Alaska was speeded by a wisecrack aimed at the governor's wife, who failed to appreciate it entirely. The governor came bounding in to view one night hollering, "Catch that scoundrel!" "What did he do?" Mizner wanted to know. "Do?" echoed the governor. "He insulted my wife!" Mizner was properly appalled. "For heaven's sake, how?" he demanded.

A Young and Good King

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Josiah, king of Judah, that is of the Southern Kingdom, with its capital in Jerusalem, and the rule over two of the 12 tribes, after the disruption of the Jewish people into two kingdoms after the reign of Solomon—this Josiah stands in the Old Testament and in the history of kings, as a conspicuous example of a good young man and a good king.

Though the record is not clear, it is apparent that someone deserved great credit for the good young man. His father, King Amon, who ruled only two years before his own servants conspired and killed him, left a record of evil. His grandfather, King Manasseh, though he repented late in life and sought to undo the evil he had done had been a particularly bad man and king during most of his career.

But whatever good guidance and good counsel Josiah may have had, when he became king, at eight years of age, much credit is due to the young king himself.

The testing time came as he grew old enough to think and act for himself. And the record is particularly pleasing (II Chronicles 34:3) in chapters that tell of so much evil.

Why were the saints and prophets of Israel and Judah and the good kings, when they happened to be good, so zealous about keeping the religion of the people free from the contaminations of the pagan peoples surrounding them? It was not merely a national zeal, a concern for a religion of their own. It was a matter of moral integrity, of keeping social and family life free from the debasing and licentious practices which were associated with idolatry. The lapse of the Jewish people into idolatry always meant a moral collapse.

The religion of the Jews, as the Old Testament reveals it, was not always upon the high plane to which it developed—that is, the conception of a God who was a God of the whole world and that the Jews themselves were a chosen people through whom all the nations were to be blessed. The richness and fullness of that development is in many of the Psalms and in the chapters of Isaiah, not to mention all the high points of what men found in the earnestness of their search for God.

One sees the early emphasis upon the purity of family life and the concern for social welfare in sanitary regulations and the strict responsibility of the individual to the health of the tribal community.

It was this that the wisest and best among the Jews sought above all to maintain.

If we would but understand it, there are idolatries in modern life that are quite as evil and corrupting. Modern peoples called to a high estate, with a heritage of the Christian gospel and the example and teaching to the allurements of easy and downward paths. Ancient temptations in modern forms are no less destructive. Though the wages of sin are not always apparent they are always paid. Old Testament teaching is fresh and vital in the twentieth century.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

NEW YORK—This is the beginning of the greatest exploration that diplomacy has experienced in our times. With every earnestness and sincerity the foreign secretaries of Great Britain, France and the United States are seeking a way to peace.

In a few days, at San Francisco, Soviet foreign minister Molotov will join the conversations which are to pave the way for the big meeting "at the summit." But unless there is something tangible forthcoming at the four-power conference of the foreign ministers it is likely that the session to be participated in later by President Eisenhower, Marshal Bulganin of Soviet Russia, Premier Faure of France and Prime Minister Eden of Great Britain will be only a gesture of outward friendship without any real progress toward peace.

There is no secret about what the three western governments want. They want a secure peace and not a piece of paper with lofty language. To get a secure peace, there must be an end to war. This means there must be an end to the "cold war."

The "cold war" is world-wide. The Soviet regime uses international communism to penetrate the territories of other countries and seeks the overthrow of governments as well as institutions. There can be no trust—no feeling of safety—while international communism is unrestrained.

Back in 1933 the Soviet government gave its solemn pledge to the United States government that it would refrain from imposing international communism within our borders. This promise has been repeatedly violated. Recognition was extended on the basis of these Soviet pledges. America is back to the same fundamentals today.

Since 1945 Communist imperialism has spread its authority over many hundreds of millions of people and, although ten years have elapsed since hostilities ceased on the western front, the Soviet has not been willing to declare the state of war at an end.

Instead, small countries like Poland and Czechoslovakia which were promised their independence have been converted into Soviet colonies. Communist colonialism has robbed the people of their freedom and given them puppet governments controlled from Moscow with an elaborate military apparatus.

The press dispatches from Moscow say the Soviet government doesn't want to talk about the status of the satellite states and isn't anxious to discuss the problem of a reunified Germany. But how can there be a secure peace if there is a belt of unfriendly states across eastern Europe through which the Red armies can march at any moment and threaten the peace of the Western countries?

These questions can be resolved without much trouble if the Soviet government really means to make peace in Europe. But if it's just a game—a maneuver to retain military control while at the same time offering to "relax tension"—then the attitude of the Soviet government will become transparently clear after a few exchanges of views.

In the past Mr. Molotov has usually been unwilling to make any substantial concessions on anything. He expects the other side to trade with him but he offers only a few crumbs—like the release of prisoners who ought never to have been kept in captivity so long anyway.

The eyes of the world are fixed on the forthcoming conferences with the Soviet and judging by the preparations which have been made thus far the United States, Great Britain and France are not going to adopt either a belligerent or a craven attitude but will lay the facts on the table. Those facts tell the story of why there is a "cold war."

It's a simple story and an old one—the thirst for power by autocracy. This time it is tied into a fanatical ideology with a conspiracy that reaches around the globe. The Soviets can end the cold war because they started it. They know what is involved. And the whole world knows it too. The Communists are on the spot, for they have claimed they want peace. They now have a chance to demonstrate their intentions by concrete evidence of a desire to withdraw their forces and their agents back to Soviet Russia and let the rest of the world alone.

Only then will peace be secure.

Father To Father

Children's Books Have Boom; Sales Spurred By TV Stories

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Prophets of gloom like to point to children's love of television and say: "In 20 years, kids won't even know how to read." There is a widespread fear that with youngsters who are exposed to TV, books come in a bad second.

This fear is not shared by children's book experts. On the contrary, some of the largest publishers think that TV actually encourages reading. And the sales of children's books, now at an all-time high, seem to back up their argument.

"I'm optimistic," said the head of the children's department of one big publisher. "TV gets them interested in cultural things. And then they want to read about them."

"We're capitalizing on television," another executive said. "Books about personalities they see on TV are big sellers."

But the children's book industry has had to change to meet the competition. Since the end of World War II, several trends have become apparent. During the war, with materials short, children's books were a pretty sorry lot—"We could sell anything then; put out two covers with nothing in-between and it would sell."

Not now. Now the big and little publishers are going all out to cash in on the ever-expanding market. With childbirths increasing, the potential market increases too. And so one big publisher with an eye on vital statistics, has concentrated on this field and been rewarded with a 1,200 per cent increase in its children's book sales in 10 years.

One of the biggest trends in the business parallels the adult do-it-yourself fad. In the realm of children's books, they call this the "activity" book trend. There are books for youngsters to color, cut out, paste in, sew, build up, tear down. This goes hand-in-hand with an increase in educational books—stories of history, geography and such.

This increase in intra-trade competition has resulted in some healthy practices—and at least one unhealthy one. Since adults naturally buy children's books, the jackets are generally designed to catch their eye. And some smaller publishers will put different jackets on the same book, hoping to attract more buyers.

There are cases where the same book has been jacketed three different times in one year, and undoubtedly some people have been lured into buying the same book more than once.

But most of the competition has been healthy. Simon & Schuster, one of the largest, produces big and beautiful volumes, such as a child's dictionary, encyclopedia, geography. They're now working on a companion piece, a history of the world. Before it's ready for printing, it will already have cost them more than $100,000 in writing, research and art work.

Children's books are expensive to publish. Even a 25-cent book will cost, on an average, $8,000 for color plates alone.

Another product of this competition is what Bernard Geis calls

"the first basic change in kids' books in 20 years." This is Geis' method of applying a record to a book so that the child can put the book on the record player. After reading it, he can listen to it. Or vice versa.

These are called "Magic Talking Books," and Geis, a former children's book editor, developed them in his search to combat TV's combination of sight plus sound. The publisher John C. Winston Co. put up $250,000 to aid in the development.

While these new-fangled books are racking up big sales, some of the old stand-bys still find a market. The children's classics, like "Black Beauty" and "Little Lord Fauntleroy," are continually appearing in new editions. Later, they've appeared in what the industry calls "flats"—the large, thin, profusely-illustrated books.

Series about the same character are not the power they once were. But some of the old standards have been reissued. (In re-editions the Bobsey Twins, such phrases as "Go out and play, but watch out for carriages" were necessarily updated.) Tom Swift goes on and on—latest is "Tom Swift and His Atom Earth Blaster."

There are some modern series, but they're hard to tell as such. Dutton has had much success with books by Janet Lambert, which are loosely tied together. She writes about five different families, and they are all connected in some way. But there is no connection in the titles. Another Dutton series is its "Young Traveler" books, which takes readers to exciting places.

Besides re-editing the old series for the eight-12 age group—the children's book industry calls this the "middle-ages"—there's been some changes made in fairy tales, too. Some of the editors, well-versed in psychology, took a second look at the once-upon-a-time stuff and were shocked.

"Fairy tales," one said, "are unpleasant and scary. There are things like wolves and spiders and people cutting off tails with carving knives."

So more than one re-edited collection of fairy tales has appeared. One publisher features a "Friendly Mother Goose."

The product of all this editing and competition is selling well, but less and less in book stores. One children's book expert says that only two per cent of children's books are sold in book stores. This is especially true in the books for younger children.

In this two-10 group, reliable estimates place the sale at between 70 and 80 per cent in the so-called "mass market" outlets—drug stores, supermarkets and 5-and-10-cent stores. The supermarket is gaining, but the 5-and-10-cent store is currently the largest seller of these volumes.

And the publishers are hitting constantly at this lower age group. They've discovered that by the time a child reaches the age of 1 1/4, he likes to look at a book. One publisher privately says a parent can satisfy this urge with a magazine, but the publishers are bringing out more and more books for the littler ones.

These are the "one-liners"—a page of picture with one-line of text. Such books are big hits with fathers, less for them to have to read to the kids.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—A campaign to finance and force President Dwight D. Eisenhower to run for a second term of office has already been started among his White House staff.

This has been done somewhat on the q. t. Also, it was done without the President's knowledge or consent.

The news leaked out in Washington last week as a few members of the palace guard began to appear in public with little plastic pins in their coat lapel button-holes reading "CLUB." The bottom, horizontal line of the capital L extended below the smaller letters up.

The first one was noticed gleaming on the dark blue suit of Gov. Harold Stassen, foreign operations administrator who soon becomes the unofficial Cabinet "Secretary of Peace."

Another pin was worn by Homer H. Gruenther, assistant to the Assistant to the President, Gov. Sherman Adams, and a brother of NATO Commander in Chief Alfred M. Gruenther.

The civilian Gruenther was a little shy in explaining what the Club pin was all about. He kissed it off with the comment, "Oh, it's just a little club that we have."

From Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, deputy assistant to the President, came the first explanation. General Persons wasn't wearing his pin, explaining it was home on his other suit. But he belonged, he said, and so did most of the other members of the White House staff.

The correct, full name of the Club, he explained, is "The 150 Club." Now this is neat, but it's also tricky, so follow closely. "C" is the Roman numeral for 50. "CL" is 150. Get it?

All right. Each cell, or Club unit is supposed to have 150 members. Every member of the Club—and here is the gimmick—is supposed to go out and start a unit of his own with another 150 members.

Nobody knows just how this thing started. Someone whose letter has now been conveniently lost—presumably the button manufacturer—sent in a flock of the Club emblems and asked for a White House blessing. The original plan was to get $150 from each member. Nobody took that seriously.

The buttons finally ended up in the hands of one of the Filipino mess attendants at the White House. He started peddling them for $1.50 and sold out.

The arithmetic of this thing is terrific. The pins cost a cent apiece, so the profit on the first CLUB of 150 members would be $224.50. One thousand Clubs would make $224,500. It would all supposedly be turned in to the Republican Finance Committee to help renominate Eisenhower.

But GOP headquarters say they never heard of the Club and to date they have received no money.

General Persons, asked if Ike knew about this, said: "He probably doesn't. If he did, he'd give somebody hell."

This Club idea is reminiscent of other trick schemes which have been thought up to finance political activities.

There was, for instance, President Franklin R. Roosevelt's "One Thousand Club," for the 1944 campaign. A thousand members were supposed to give $1000 apiece to raise one million dollars.

This goal was way too high. Only 291 members were ever signed up and some of them didn't give the full $1000.

In the 1948 campaign, Beardsley Ruml, father of the pay-as-you-go income tax collection scheme and treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, dreamed up a political financing plan at a lower level.

He proposed that ordinary voters buy memberships in the party of their choice at $5 a head. He put it on the basis of being a civic duty to clean up campaign contributions.

If half of the 60 million voters paid up, there would be 150 million dollars to divide between the two major parties. Conservatively, Ruml hoped he could get 400,000 Democrats to give $5 apiece, to raise two million dollars. But he never reached that goal.

The CIO Political Action Committee and the AFL Labor's League for Political Education have for some years worked on their 15 million or more members to give a dollar apiece to finance their campaigns.

The best they were ever able to do—in 1950—was to raise a little over one million dollars each. But they're still trying.

Maybe the Eisenhower Club idea will catch on and do better.

An Ohio woman was fined $50 for pulling a neighbor's hair. We have a hunch she thought it was worth it.

Better start saving now, Dad, to pay for what the kids are going to give you for Fathers Day.

There is no excuse for a bachelor being a good liar.

Picnics are where the key breaks just when some poor fish husband starts to open a can of sardines.

Ceremony Unites Barbara LaFleur, Joseph P. Sheski

Bouquets of pink and white peonies adorned the altar of Sacred Heart Church, Schaffer, during the double ring marriage of Miss Barbara Jean LaFleur and Joseph Philip Sheski today, June 18. The 9:30 a. m. ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. J. N. Arnett, and the two altar boys serving the mass were Ivy Lee Hurtubise and Thomas LaFleur, both cousins of the bride.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaFleur, Bark River Rte. 2, and Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Sheski of Powers.

Soloist of the nuptial Mass was Miss Jean LaBranche, cousin of the bride, who sang "Ave Maria" at the Offertory and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" as the bride placed her bouquet before the altar of the Blessed Virgin. Mrs. Blanche Seymour was organist.

Identical Gowns

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a white floor-length gown of white nylon tulle and Chantilly lace over gleaming satin fashioned with a fitted lace bodice, a sheer illusion yoke and long tapering lace sleeves. Lace and iridescent sequins detailed the yoke across the shoulders and below the Peter Pan collar. Her bouffant skirt was achieved through gathered fullness of double tulle with four panels of matching lace from waist to hemline. A fingertip veil of French silk illusion billowed from the bridal crown of pearls and sequins. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings, gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with an orchid.

Identical ballerina length gowns of orchid, Nile green and yellow, respectively, were worn by the honor attendant, Miss Joann LaFleur, the bride's sister, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Ronald Hurtubise, cousin of the bride, and Miss Gaynell McInnis. Their strapless gowns were designed with lace bodices, net skirts over taffeta and matching boleros. The three attendants wore single strands of pearls, gifts of the bride and bridegroom. They wore matching headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of carnations and snapdragons of pastel shades.

Little Jayne Sheski, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She was attired in a floor length gown of aqua taffeta styled with a lace trimmed yoke and Peter Pan collar. Her only jewelry was a gold cross, gift of the couple. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a miniature bouquet of white carnations centered with an orchid tinted carnation.

Afternoon Reception

Best man for Mr. Sheski was Donald Shannon, while Charles Belmont and Ronald Hurtubise, cousins of the bride, acted as groomsmen. Brother of the bride, Joseph R. LaFleur carried the rings. Ushering the guests to their seats were Robert Lawrence and Lawrence Mayrand.

Mrs. LaFleur attended her daughter's wedding attired in a dress of frosty pink silk worn with matching navy accessories, while the bridegroom's mother wore a navy and white print dress with white accessories. Shoulder corsages fashioned of white carnations and centered by a yellow rose were worn by both mothers.

The wedding breakfast immediately following the ceremony, and the reception for 200 guests from 2 to 6 p. m. are both at Potvin's Fireside Room in Schaffer. Assisting at the reception will be Miss Betty Lessard, serving cake, and Miss Elaine Langaas pouring.

Copper Country Trip

Following the reception, the newlyweds will leave for a honeymoon trip through the Copper Country. For traveling, the bride will wear a beige tweed suit with navy and white accessories. They will live in Spalding upon their return. The new Mrs. Sheski is a graduate of Bark River - Harris High School, and the bridegroom was graduated from Powers-High School.

Out-of-town wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Schubert and daughters, New Lisbon, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wiesler and family, Sandusky, Ohio; Mr. Ann Sheski and Fred Boniarz, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bader and Paul, Wells; Miss Joann LaFleur, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Collins and family, Miss Rosemary LaBranche and Donna Raciott, all of Milwaukee; Mrs. William LaFleur and Clement Mayrand, Racine; Mr. and Mrs. Neal Shotts and Butch Williams, Kenosha; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Langaas and Elaine, Ishpeming, Mr. and Mrs. John LaFleur and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed LaFleur and Sandra; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Trepanier and Ann, and Mr. and Mrs. Lane LaFleur and family, all of Iron Mountain; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jacobs and son, Appleton, Wis.; and many others from Powers, Spalding, Hermansville, Bark River, Flat Rock and Escanaba.

St. Anne's Court Dinner Thursday

Members of St. Anne's Court, W. C. O. F., will be guests at a dinner party Thursday evening, June 23, at Rodman's Tea Room at Hermansville. Hostesses are Mrs. Albert D. Laviolette and Mrs. Lucille Rodman. A social during which cards will be played will follow the dinner. Members are asked to make reservations with Mrs. Tom Tousignant not later than Tuesday.

Marilyn Tilbert, Leo G. Ladonsky Nuptials Today

In a double ring ceremony at 10 a. m. today at St. Patrick's Church, Miss Marilyn Joy Tilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil H. Tilbert, 1420 12th Ave. S., Escanaba, exchanged marriage vows with Leo G. Ladonsky, of Chicago, son of Mrs. Charles Ladonsky of Cornell.

Father Francis A. Hollenbach, who was celebrant of the Nuptial High Mass, solemnized the wedding service. The bride, escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a strapless ballerina length gown of embroidered white nylon tulle netting, the skirt designed with row upon row of ruffling. With it she wore a matching jacket with long, tapering sleeves. Her chapel length veil of illusion was caught to a solid rhinestone tiara. She carried a cascade of white feathered carnations and pink roses, edged in maline, with white satin shower ribbons.

In Peacock Blue

Miss Betty Martin, maid of honor, and Mrs. Wayne A. S. Pierre, a cousin of the bride, who was bridal aide, were attired in identical ballerina gowns of peacock blue. Etienne jackets of lace were worn over the strapless bodices. Matching headpieces with tiny veils completed their ensembles. They carried pink carnations and white snapdragons, edged with pink maline.

Wayne A. St. Pierre was best man for Mr. Ladonsky and Robert Martin ushered. Mrs. Tilbert wore powder blue nylon with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother wore polished blue with rhinestone trim and matching accessories. Their corsages were pink and white snapdragons.

The floral setting for the ceremony was formed of two large vases holding mixed peonies, gladioli and snapdragons. St. Patrick's Choir sang the music of the wedding Mass with Mrs. William Ramspeck organist.

Reception This Afternoon

The reception from 3 to 6 will be held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Mose M. Martin, 1312 4th Ave. S. Blue flowers adorn the three-tiered square wedding cake.

The newlyweds, who will reside in Chicago, will leave immediately after the reception for a honeymoon at an undisclosed destination. For going-away the bride has selected a powder blue polished cotton suit with which she will wear white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba Senior High School and also attended Cloverland Commercial College. Her husband, who recently was separated from the service, attended school in Chicago.

Miss Anne Cass, Walter Petersen Exchange Vows

St. Joseph's Church was the setting for the double ring ceremony of Miss Anne Therese Cass, daughter of George R. Cass Sr., 211 S. 11th St., and the late Mrs. Cass, and Walter Ray Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Petersen of Spalding today, June 18.

The 11 a. m. nuptials were performed by the Rev. Coleman Higdon, O. F. M., before an altar banked with cut spring flowers.

Chapel Train

The bride's floor length gown of lace and nylon tulle was fashioned with a chapel train extending from the full skirt detailed with a kerchief effect. An illusion neckline with set-in collar detailed the lace bodice. Nylon lace formed the Mary Queen of Scots hat which secured her veil of nylon illusion edged with lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Leonard Pepin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Grant Peterson, Spalding, was bridesmaid. The bridal attendants were like blue and pink floor length gowns of nylon net and lace. They wore matching nylon net headpieces and gloves and carried cascade bouquets of carnations, pink and blue.

Brother-in-law of the bride, Leonard Pepin, acted as best man with the groomsmen, Grant Peterson, the bridegroom's brother. Ushers at the ceremony were Charles Cass, the bride's brother, and Donald LeBoeuf, cousin of the bridegroom.

Mother's Attire

An aqua print dress with matching accessories was worn by Mrs. Petersen for her son's wedding. Her corsage was fashioned of pink carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast for the bridal party and immediate family members was served at the Chicken Shack. The wedding reception will be held from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. at the Chicken Shack and from 5 p. m. to 9 p. m. at Fleetwood's Inn at Spalding. Assisting in the serving will be Mrs. Harry Johnson, Mrs. Albert Gram, Mrs. Mike Cass, Mrs. Lynn Nelson and Mrs. Kenneth Palmgren.

When the newlyweds depart for an unannounced wedding trip, the new Mrs. Petersen will wear a charcoal blue suit with white accessories. Upon their return, they will reside at Escanaba.

The bride, a graduate of Escanaba Senior High School, is employed by the Credit Bureau of Escanaba, and Mr. Petersen, a graduate of Powers - Spalding High School, is employed by the Potter Lumber Co. at Spalding. He also attended Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton and Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Guests attending the wedding from out-of-town were John Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Minich and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Walsh, DePere, Wis., Miss Marilyn Priest, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. George McKilligan, Kenosha, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon McCarthy, Iron Mountain; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Palmgren, Bark River; Mr. and Mrs. Don Belanger, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Liedtke, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Petersen and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nord, Marquette; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ponegalek, Santa Monica, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. George Brukardt, Marinette; Phil Ponegalek, Lakeside, Mich.

California Girl Will Be Bride Of Robert E. McDonald

Of wide interest here is announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Mona Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Burns, Westchester, Calif., and Robert Edmond McDonald son of Mrs. James E. McDonald, 325 Ogden Ave., Escanaba.

The wedding will take place Saturday, June 25, at 9 a. m. at the Church of the Visitation, 88th and Emerson, Westchester.

A reception following the ceremony will be held at the Buggy Whip in Westchester.

Louise DeBacker Is The Bride Of Giles Jodocy

Rev. Mathias Jodocy, of Ishpeming, brother of the bridegroom, officiated at the marriage today, June 18, of Mrs. Louise DeBacker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Heynssens, Rock, and Giles Jodocy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jodocy of St. Nicholas. The 9:30 a. m. ceremony was performed at St. Joseph Church, Perkins.

Music of the Nuptial Mass was sung by St. Joseph Choir with "Ave Maria" the Offertory hymn. Miss Kathleen Depuydt was organist.

Attendants of the couple were Mrs. Peter Barron as matron of honor and Peter Barron, best man.

Bride In Pink

The bride wore a pink gown fashioned with white ruffled lace on the fitted bodice and a bouffant skirt. Her shoulder length pink veil was caught to a pink flowered crown. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

An aqua gown designed with double lace ruffling and a full skirt was worn by the bride attendant. She wore a white and aqua flowered headpiece and carried a mixed bouquet of pink, yellow and white snapdragons.

Mothers of the bridal couple were attired in navy blue, complemented by black accessories. Their corsages were fashioned of mixed flowers.

Reception At Cornell

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the Sherman Hotel for the bridal party and immediate family members. Wedding reception will be held at the Cornell hall from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. with the 4-H club girls of Cornell assisting.

When the newlyweds leave for their honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, Mrs. Jodocy will be attired in a pink dress with white accessories. Upon their return, they will reside at St. Nicholas.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Ott and son of Chicago attended the wedding.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Murray of Green Bay are the parents of a daughter, Mary Kay, born June 12. The baby is the first in the family and is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Murray of 307 N. 14th St., Escanaba.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ponegalek, Santa Monica, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. George Brukardt, Marinette; Phil Ponegalek, Lakeside, Mich.

Carol LaMarche, LeRoy Hereau In Bridal Rites

Miss Carol Jean LaMarche became the bride of LeRoy Hereau in a double ring ceremony which took place at 9 a. m. today at Holy Family Church in Flat Rock. The vows were repeated before Father Gerard F. LaMothe who was celebrant of the Nuptial High Mass.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Edward LaMarche and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Hereau of Escanaba Rte. 1.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white scalloped Chantilly lace over net and satin. The long, tapering sleeves formed points over the wristline. Her fingertip veil of fine matching lace was gathered to an open crown of pearls. Her only jewelry was a locket, the bridegroom's gift, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white feathered carnations edged with white maline.

In Identical Gowns

Identical gowns styled with bodices of embroidered net with stand-up collars and full skirts of net over taffeta were worn by the young women attending her. Headpieces of braided tulle matching the gowns completed their attire. Miss Geraldine LaMarche, who was her sister's maid of honor, in blue, carried yellow carnations and pink snapdragons, edged in pink maline. Bridesmaids were Miss Lorraine LaMarche, another sister of the bride, and Miss Jean Hereau, a sister of the bridegroom. Miss LaMarche, who wore pink, carried light pink carnations and white snapdragons edged in pink maline, and Miss Hereau, who wore yellow, carried yellow roses and rust snapdragons with an edging of yellow maline.

Little Dale LaMarche, cousin of the bride, who was flower girl, wore a frock of white taffeta with a Peter Pan collar and puffed sleeves, trimmed with white lace insertions. Her headpiece was blue satin ribbon. She carried a miniature bouquet similar to the bride's, of red roses and white feathered carnations. Terry Lavigne, also a cousin of the bride, carried the rings on a heart shaped pillow of taffeta and matching lace.

Arnold Hereau served as best man for his brother. Ushers were uncles, Omer Dupont and Phil LaMarche of Escanaba.

Afternoon Reception

Mrs. LaMarche wore a dress of yellow faille taffeta with white accessories for her daughter's wedding and Mrs. Hereau wore a dress of pink embroidered linen with a white jacket and white accessories. Their corsages were contrasting orchid lilies.

The music of the wedding Mass was sung by Holy Family Choir with Mrs. Ernest Roberts, organist. Serving at the altar which was adorned with mixed bouquets were Willard LaMarche and Harold Chenier. "On This Day" was sung by the choir as the bride placed a bouquet of mixed snapdragons and carnations tied with blue ribbon on the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

A wedding breakfast was served for members of the bridal party at Bell's Restaurant. The reception from 3 to 6 this afternoon will be held at the Riverland Ballroom and will be followed by a wedding dance. Mrs. Hubert Irving will be in charge of the reception, assisted by Miss Laurel Plourde and Mrs. Ray LaMarche. Miss Lavergne LaMarche and Miss Diane Hereau will pour and Mrs. Ronald Lantagne will serve the four-tiered wedding cake which is topped by traditional bridal figures.

To Niagara Falls

When the newlyweds leave for a honeymoon at Niagara Falls the bride will wear a white nylon dress with red trim and white accessories. They will live in Escanaba Rte. 1. The bride, who was graduated from St. Joseph's High School in 1953, is with the Michigan Bell Telephone Company. Mr. Hereau, who is employed by Harnischfeger, is a

Institute Picks Architect Oscars

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Architecture's "Academy Awards" will go to five buildings selected by the American Institute of Architects as the top examples of American architecture.

A special honor awards jury of the Institute, national professional organization of architects, pored over more than 300 entries to come up with five buildings which merited first honor awards and 22 other buildings which are to be granted awards of merit.

The Detroit firm of Eero Saarinen and Associates walked off with two of the first honor awards—for General Motors Technical Center's central restaurant building at Warren, Mich., and the women's dormitories and dining hall at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa.

Other first honor awards will go to Ralph Rapson of Minneapolis and John van der Meulen in Stockholm, built under the Department of State's foreign buildings operations; Ernest J. Kump of Palo Alto, California for the elementary school in North Hillsborough, Calif.; and Charles B. Genter of Pace Associates in Chicago for the General Telephone Company of the Southwest in San Angelo, Texas.

Included in the group of 22 buildings to receive the A. I. A. award of merit are several college dormitories and other educational facilities, individual houses and large-scale residential work, churches, medical buildings, a shopping center, a bank, a library, a bandstand and park pavilion and a playground clubhouse.

The winning architects will be given their awards during the annual convention of the Institute to be held in Minneapolis June 20-24. The A. I. A. also furnishes a special stainless steel plaque to be placed on each first honor award building—designating it as an example of the very best in American architecture.

The buildings selected to receive first honor awards include: Women's dormitories and dining hall, Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa.

U. S. Embassy, Stockholm, Sweden.

North Hillsborough Elementary School, North Hillsborough, Calif. Central restaurant building, General Motors Technical Center, Warren, Mich.

Begin Building Four New Homes

Applications to construct four new homes in Escanaba have been approved by the city within the past week, together with one new business building and other construction.

Approval was given Harlan Hansen to build a dwelling at 1016 N. 20th St.; to Edward O. McCarthy to build a home at 2004 5th Ave. S.; to Norman G. Arntzen to construct a house at 1616 16th Ave. S. in the Goulais Addition; and for an Arbour-Built Home at 1501 S. 14th St.

W. D. Ladouceur received a permit to construct a dry cleaning plant at 230 Stephenson Ave., where the site has been cleared by the razing of an old building. The new structure will be 24 feet wide and 89 feet long.

H. E. Flath was granted a permit to build a 24 by 60-foot addition to the City Cleaners building, 2201 Ludington.

Construction of a two-car private garage, 22 by 24 feet, was approved on the application of F. E. Sweeney, 229 S. 23rd St.

Peat Moss Adds To Soil's Life

Peat moss literally gives soil new life—by adding pure, weed-free, spongy 97% organic vegetable matter. It opens the soil, admitting vital air and moisture, and acts as a reservoir for plant food, releasing it to roots as needed.

Thus, it insures maximum return from seed, fertilizer and time invested.

Peat moss loosens heavy soils, gives substance to light soils, gives all soils loam-like texture, prevents surface crusting. The result is that peat moss makes soils "breathe deeply" and retain moisture, thus enabling roots to develop to maximum vigor. Healthy roots grow healthy plants.

FLOWER BULBS: Mix well a two- to three-inch layer of moist peat moss into top six inches of soil. Add plant food and (except for acid-loving plants) five pounds of agricultural lime per bale of peat moss.

VEGETABLES: Spade a two-inch layer of moist peat moss into top six inches of soil. Add agricultural lime (10 pounds per 100 sq. ft.), except for root crops like potatoes, turnips, carrots, etc.

ROSES, TREES, SHRUBS: Dig large hole so roots can spread freely. Mix one-third peat moss with two-thirds soil (by bulk) for fillback. Settle soil in filled hole by soaking. A two-inch mulch of moist peat moss will doubly insure sturdy growth.

EVERGREENS: Plant broad-leaved (azaleas, rhododendrons, etc.) in a 50-50 mixture of moist peat moss and soil. For cone-bearers (pines, spruce, hemlock, etc.) use one - third peat moss, two-thirds soil. A two- to four-inch mulch of peat moss improves appearance.

LAWNS (new): Mix one to three inches of peat moss into top six inches of soil. Rake in plant food, sow grass seed, roll and water gently.

LAWNS (established): Top-dress with 1/4-inch of peat moss and rake in well each spring and autumn. To renovate poor spots, work 1/2 inch of peat moss into soil, add fertilizer, reseed and water well.

INDOORS: House plants, mix one-third peat moss to two-thirds good loam. A pinch of plant food helps. For bulbs, fill pots with peat moss, keep moist. For tulips, use one - third peat moss one-third loam, one-third sharp sand.

STORING: Use peat moss any time to improve poor soil and maintain good soil. Store and ship bulbs, roots, fruits, vegetables in peat moss. It is light, absorbent; it insulates and protects.

SUMMER MULCH: When plants are growing well, after cultivating soil, mulch around them with one to four inches of moist peat moss. This will keep down weeds, make further cultivation unnecessary, keep the soil moist and cool and the roots vigorous, and give your planting a neat, well-groomed appearance.

WINTER MULCH: Peat moss is a splendid insulating material. It prevents root insect blowing. In the spring, peat moss can be raked off and used elsewhere as a soil conditioner.

Burglary Business Bad In Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. — A 37-year-old burglar, arrested with three younger pals, complained that he had shown only a $3 profit since moving to Dallas for a life of crime.

"I quit selling hot sugar ration stamps in 1946 with $48,000 cash profit," said the ex-Army mess sergeant. He said a bad heart kept him from going straight but that stealing hadn't been profitable.

His wife left him, he said, and he came to Dallas with $54. He had $57 when police searched him.

Screen Can Be Made For $10

A standing screen can serve many useful purposes in the household. It can be pushed hastily around the laundry basket. It can screen baby's crib from a draft or lend privacy to a corner of a room.

One of burlap and pine designed by Elizabeth Cowan may be made for less than $10. Here's how:

You'll need a crewel work needle, long sewing needle, a paint brush, rabbit-plane, right angle wood clamps. Materials include 5 1/2 yards of gold burlap, 1 spool dark brown sewing thread, 1 spool each of red and turquoise linen weaving yarn (or other colors), 1 hank of brown cotton rope (the type used in weaving), white pine strips, glue, sandpaper, a small can of lacquer or varnish, 1 pint gold lacquer, 6 double hinges with screws, 6 metal glider feet, about 300 brass upholstery tacks.

The Frame

Make it out of 6 white pine strips, 70 in. long and 6 pieces 20 1/2 in. long (2 1/2 by 3 3/4 in. stock). The joints at corners are rabbeted to increase the rigidity and strength of the frame. Spread wood glue in grooves and on tongues. Join. Place glued pieces in clamps to dry. When all pieces are assembled join three frames with double hinges. One hinge should be about 3 inches from the upper edge, one in the center and another 3 inches from the bottom. Attach glider feet, two on each panel. Sandpaper and apply one coat of varnish or lacquer. When dry paint with gold lacquer. Two coats may be required. (Or use a paint color of your choice if you prefer.)

Embroidering Burlap

Cut three pieces of burlap 68 in. x 24 in. Lay out the design. The weave in burlap is so definite that it is easy to embroider a straight line by following a thread. A stripe is made by weaving up and down in a slant line. The stripes are ten threads of the burlap weave wide and the slant is ten threads long. Turquoise is pretty. Use outline stitches for narrow stripes twelve inches long, overlapping six threads from previous stitch. Red harmonizes nicely. Go all the way through the burlap with these stitches so the design appears on both sides. Conceal yarn ends under stitches. Couch the brown cotton rope on with brown sewing thread. Be careful that stitches do not go through the burlap to show on the reverse side unless the rope design is repeated in the back.

Fold raw edges of burlap toward front. Attach burlap panels to the

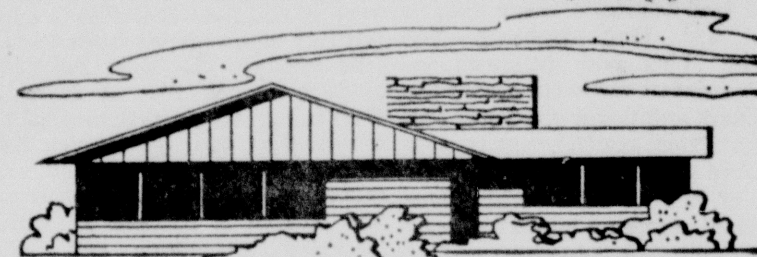

SAFETY PAYS

A HANDY scaffold can be formed with an 8-foot plank at least 2 inches thick and 12 inches wide, laid across two 6-foot step ladders. It is adjustable for painting ceilings or lower story of a house. The Institute for Safer Living recommends clamps to hold the plank.

back side of frame with upholstery tacks, allowing 1/2 inch overlap and 2 inch spacings. Tack upper edge first, then work down evenly on each side. Keep the same amount of tension on each side so the design remains straight.

Progress Made On Water Main

Construction of a reinforcing water main to give better water service to the rapidly developing North Escanaba area will be completed this year by the city of Escanaba as a public works project.

The project is being financed by water bonds voted by the people a few years ago in a bond issue to construct a water filtration and pumping station and extend the North Escanaba water main.

The reinforcing main, when completed, will provide a loop in the water main system in North Escanaba and assure better water pressure for the area. Its extreme limit in the area will be the Harnischfeger Corporation's truck crane plant on the Danforth Road.

Beginning as a 16-inch pipe near the water pressure-storage tank at 1st Ave. N. and 21st St., the main reduces to 12 and 10 inches as it goes north, connecting and interconnecting with the present mains. Two feeder mains will be provided to meet water demands created by industrial growth in North Escanaba.

In three locations the main will be extended beneath highways or railways. Just completed is the running of the main beneath N. 21st St. (US-241) in front of the U. P. State Fair grounds. Extension of the main beneath the Chicago & North Western Railway tracks and E. & L. S. Railway line will be undertaken in August.

Hay Smothers Boy At Centerville, Mich.

CENTERVILLE, Mich. P—Andy Huff and his pal Wally Bowman, both 9, were having great fun Wednesday on the George Rice farm.

Farmhands were feeding hay into a machine that poured it into a moving wagon. Andy and Wally were running alongside and climbing into the wagon to watch the hay pile up.

Later, back at the barn, Wally missed his friend. He told farmhands. They searched the fields. No success. Then Wally suggested they look in the wagon.

There, under a pile of hay, they found Andy's body. He had been trapped in the falling hay and had suffocated.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures
TWO-STORY split level is the architect's description for this five-level house. It occupies as small an area as a cottage, yet contains nine rooms, two baths, extra lavatory, plus a basement utility room with work bench space and a spacious basement game room. You enter this house from a covered porch at the living room level. Four steps below is a den or all-purpose room with laundry and lavatory adjoining. Rear terrace opens from the den. Eight steps up from the living room are a study-bedroom, bathroom and master bedroom. Five steps up from this level are two more bedrooms and a bath with stall shower. This is Plan 100AP by Samuel Paul, architect, 89-51 164th St., Jamaica 32, N.Y. The house covers an area of only 1,050 square feet with 920 square feet on upper floors.

Milk-Maid Stool Handy Home Gadget

AP Newsfeatures
A UTILITY STOOL is handy in every kitchen for reaching higher shelves and cabinets. It can be moved around more conveniently than a small step ladder. A child will like it for watching television or listening to radio.

The home workshop fan finds the making of such a stool an easy project. One of the simplest has been designed by the National Lumber Manufacturers Assn. to resemble a milk-maid stool.

The top is cut from a scrap of 2 by 12-inch lumber, 9 inches long, tapered with all four corners rounded on a 2-inch radius.

The legs are made of 1 1/4-inch dowel or flag pole stock, each 8 5/8 inches long. The upper 1 5/8 inches of each leg is reduced by turning on a lathe, or by use of a wood rasp, to 3/4 inch in diameter. Holes 3/4 inch in diameter are bored through the seat to fit the legs, which are glued in place. Round all sharp edges with a rasp.

Since World War II, France has built about 400,000 dwellings and Germany about 1,700,000.

Limestone Is Fine For Walls

AP Newsfeatures
CHICAGO—Homeowners often get the urge to build something outdoors—something rugged and permanent like a patio backed by a stone wall or a flower box fronting a picture window.

Will Hattendorf of the Cut Stone Contractors Assn., Chicago, says Indiana limestone is an ideal material. It not only is easy to handle but it creates a handsome job after it is finished.

Your local cut stone contractor can help you estimate your needs. You'll need a mason's hammer, mason's chisel, trowel, shovel, ruler and level.

For permanence, a "below frost-line" foundation should be installed as a base for the stone work to rest upon, although it can be placed on merely a five-inch slab. But in the long run it is best to have a foundation go three to four feet deep.

Planning the Pattern

After you have laid out the project and have the foundation set, you then decide on the pattern you are going to set the stone. You can get cut stone in short and long lengths. If you are adept with the mason's hammer you can cut them further to fit. Patience works best here. Even pros boo boo occasionally, breaking the stone where they hadn't ought to. With a little experimenting you can do it, and—says a do-it-yourselfer can't!

But limestone is a soft material and is easily worked. To be on the safe side figure on a little waste.
You can achieve various patterns by using stone heights of these standard-cut proportions: 15 per cent of 2 1/4-inch, 45 per cent of 5-inch and 40 per cent of 7 3/4-inch.
Mixing the Mortar
The recommended mortar mixture is one part stainless cement, one part lime and five parts sand.
With level and trowel, you can begin the job of laying the stone. Slap the mortar on heavily and make a ditch in it the length of the section of stone to be set.
Be sure each of the stone sections is set true vertically and horizontally. The level is the tool for this. Then scrape off excess mortar with trowel.

The joints should be 1/2-inch wide to give an effective shadow line which will be obtained by raking out the joints to a depth of 3/8 to 1/2 inch after mortar has set but not hardened.
The stone can be cleaned with a stiff bristle brush which will take off most mortar deposits if used before the mortar completely dries.
A later scrubbing with pure soap suds and rinsing with clear water is recommended. But don't make the mistake of cleaning limestone with acid. It won't take it.

SAFETY PAYS

AP Newsfeatures
BATHTUBS are dangerous. Little boys sense this. Statisticians prove it. A strong grip bar prevents accidents—a horizontal bar for tub, vertical for shower. The American Home magazine suggests screwing such bars firmly into the studs with long screws. Tile work alone will not hold.

Foldaway Doors Gaining In Use

Foldaway doors are making great headway in the American home. Why have big thick walls between dining room and living room or kitchen and dining room in a small home? True the cook would like privacy on most occasions. Diners would like to be closed off from unexpected callers. But for the most part walls between living area and dining area are not important—one reason why the folding door is becoming popular.

A folding wall permits more breathing space for the family. Children may romp in a larger area and a feeling of spaciousness is acquired in a small home. Metal has been used for this purpose. Bamboo and plastic are also popular in the fold-door group. A bamboo-fold may be applied in from 5 to 7 minutes. A metal track is centered at the ceiling where the room divider is to be put. Holes are punched through the track with a drill or awl and screws inserted in the opening. Nylon buttons on the bamboo are inserted at the top of the track, keeping folds partially open. The divider folds to less than 10 per cent of its extended width with fingertip control.

These bamboo or plastic room dividers are sold all set for the home handyman at lumber yards, decorating stores and building supply stores.

World Briefs

PANAMA (P)—Plans for Panama's participation in the 1955 Miss Universe contest have been canceled, apparently because of a warning by Roman Catholic Archbishop Francisco Beckman that bathing beauty contestants would commit "a special sin." The archbishop warned last Sunday that young women appearing in bathing suits at beauty contests incurred a "special sin" rendering them unworthy to receive church sacraments.

LONDON (P)—Sir Winston Churchill has declined an invitation to attend the ceremonies at San Francisco next week commemorating the 10th anniversary of the United Nations, his private secretary disclosed. The former prime minister, 80, is the only surviving member of the Big Three who laid the foundations for the U. N. The others were Franklin D. Roosevelt and Joseph Stalin.

MASSA, Italy (P)—Workmen found 22 powerful land mines Friday. They were remnants of World War II, buried beside the tracks on one of Italy's busiest railroad lines.

NAGOYA, Japan (P)—Visitors watched in horror at the Nagoya Zoo Friday as 2 female elephants knocked down a 23-year-old attendant with their trunks and then trampled him to death.

Clark Bigler, 80, Author, Ex-Teacher, Tells Of Early Education In County

"Academic references count too much more than a teacher's character in school systems nowadays," Clark Bigler, author of the recently published book "Country Schoolmaster", emphatically stated in a recent interview.

Mr. Bigler, 80, a former teacher in several of Delta County's country schools and who is presently residing in Pacific Palisades, Calif., has been visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Coral Cromwell, who resides with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rene Labre at 801 Lake Shore Drive.

His book, which describes some of his experiences in the schools of Delta County and other Michigan schools, was published in April and has been reported as selling very good in Michigan and in the Los Angeles area.

Teacher At 20

The elderly author was born in 1875 at West Milton, Ohio, and at the age of 13, he moved with his family to Grand Rapids. His first teaching job was obtained in Grand Rapids when he was 16 years old by taking an examination before the county commissioner. The $20 a month job in 1891 entailed teaching 40 pupils, two of them 18, from first grade through eighth grade in one room, the first of many one room schools.

Children were not arranged into separate grades the first year that Clark Bigler began his teaching profession. They were grouped according to reading ability, which according to Mr. Bigler, is quite an advantage over the grade system used in most school systems nowadays. The retired teacher claims that a child's reading ability is a good indication of his ability in other subjects also. In California, the schools are dividing grades from sixth down into three groups according to reading ability to prevent the wide variation between the children in the same classroom.

To U. P. in 1897

His education, which was gained during the early years of his career, was mostly received at Normal State Teachers College at Ypsilanti, but he also attended Olivet College, St. Cloud Teachers College at St. Cloud, Minn., and the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. An unusual factor in his life's education is that his two brothers, five sisters, five children and wife all were pupils of Mr. Bigler.

After teaching at several other Lower Michigan schools and attending Olivet College, Clark Bigler came to the Upper Peninsula and Delta County in 1897 and had his first experience of teaching in the north. This first job was at Perkins, and Mr. Bigler recalls that all buildings of the community except one were built of logs. The one frame residence was where he boarded in two attic rooms. He married two years before coming to Delta County and Mrs. Bigler accompanied her husband up here.

The Perkins School, also one room, has over 100 children enrolled with a family of 16 children among the enrolled. It did not take many different families to fill the school was one if Mr. Bigler's memories. There were so many children that he called all of the pupils by "next".

After teaching at Perkins, he went to Garden for two years. The Garden School had two rooms but a total of 235 pupils for two instructors. The children sat all around the floors besides the seats available. Twenty years ago, Mr. Bigler learned that the school has eight teachers and the same number of pupils as when he was instructing there. While teaching at Garden, he acted as substitute mail carrier in Escanaba during the summer months.

Praise for Nahma

From Garden, Bigler went to Nahma to teach where he praised the company town, which even owned the school building, for its excellent school facilities and good wages. The classes in this community were also very large. Mr. Bigler especially remembers the incident at Nahma when he was going to resign during the year because he could not find a home for his family. The men of the town joined together and built a four room house with a little upstairs, complete with plaster, in nine days for their teacher.

While in Nahma, Bigler was taking the school census and came upon a group of about 400 Indians living in the swamp of which the government had no knowledge. They were living in very wretched conditions with almost one Indian dying in every hut and most of them saturated with disease. They were a very poor people and had absolutely nothing. After Bigler informed the government of their existence, they were brought out of the swamp and taken care of.

He returned to Lower Michigan and also taught in Wisconsin and South Dakota before returning to Delta County, and his last teaching job in this area. This last job here was at Cornell in the years of 1924 and 1925 during which time he boarded in the town. The town's lumbering boom was over at this time and the people were lumbering short stuff or trying to make farms here, and there out of the clearings left by the big lumbering companies.

Taught at Cornell

When he taught at Cornell, it was a township unit school system of which there were only two in the state. This system included ninth and tenth grades with their 11th and 12th grade pupils traveling to Escanaba for the remainder of their high schooling. Mr. Bigler has had many interesting experiences during his lifetime with the opportunity of viewing many unusual things during the time given a teacher during the summer months.

He saw the opening of the Cherokee Strip in Kansas but was unable to participate because he was under 21 years of age.

"It was the craziest thing I had ever seen. I don't see how a government could be so dumb. There were 20,000 claims to be filed on and over 100,000 men participating. It was a terribly hot day, and I can remember horses hauling water in dirty wooden wagons and charging $7.5 a glass for the warm drink, which could not even quench the thirst."

In speaking of his book, Clark Bigler states that the theme is the great importance of right education. He has tried to show what education has done for people.

"Ignorance stems all misery of the world, and the lack of understanding is the reason for poverty," he ended. "The right kind of education in the educational program could eliminate poverty and misery out of civilization. Education must be given more spiritual values. A person can not obtain education through academics alone. I don't believe in state church but state and church should co-operate. There should be a binding of the two somewhere. In this atomic age, our educational systems should accelerate spiritual values."

State Uses Varied Sales Methods To Obtain State Forest Harvests

By JEAN WORTH

Special To The Escanaba Press

LANSING — The Conservation Department, which administers the state's timberlands in northern Michigan, has tried many methods of selling timber, found none perfect and adopted several as the best compromise devisable.

The state's forests are now in delicate commercial relationship to the private and industrial forests of the state because they are producing so much wood that state sales policy can affect the commercial wood market.

George S. McIntire, state forester, Department of Conservation, says that elasticity in public timber sale is needed if both timberland management and forest income are to be realized for the state. This is particularly true in Michigan, he said, because the individual woods operator varies in production from less than 50 cords to several thousand or more cords a year. The small individual or family type operator is often ideally geared to logging chances which are unattractive to the larger operator.

"For these and other reasons," said McIntire "the small non-competitive type of state timber sale (up to $500 stumpage in the Upper Peninsula and $300 in the Lower Peninsula) is an important part of our state timber sale program. During the two years ending June 30, 1954, advertised public sales totaled 307 and accounted for 40 per cent of the timber sale receipts, while 3,455 non-competitive private sales represented 60 per cent of the timber sale money received by the state.

Suited To Operator

"If the private sale is to fulfill its aim, it must be particularly suited to the operator. Therefore, the district forester is authorized to conduct the small, so-called private sales at his own discretion within the established timber sale policy of the state.

"Although both types of sales have their place, there still appears to be a lack of balance between the two. This is one reason why greater emphasis is being placed on the competitive or public sale. More complete information on timber volumes, growth and stand condition from current inventories will facilitate this shift toward the larger blocks of stumpage and more public sales.

"There are some who are not completely in accord with our timber sale program. Some buyers and users of wood claim we should sell more stumpage at cheaper prices. Some timber owners and sellers would have us sell less at higher prices. Everything that is done on these public lands is more or less controversial because of these varied and intense interests.

"Dedicated state forest acreage in June, 1954, was 3,757,867, or 62 per cent of the area within the state forest boundaries. We are attempting to manage these areas for the greatest long range benefits to society. Two values which offer significant opportunities are wood production and game management. They often conflict, but by coordination they can accomplish greater total benefits than either objective pursued regardless of the other.

State's Harvest

"We have actually harvested timber on 250,000 acres on state forest lands in the past 10 years. All cuttings have been made with both timber production and recreation in mind including, of course, hunting.

"As a public agency, we must be impartial to the extent that we can answer accusations of favoritism. Therefore, in the disposal of timber, various forms of competitive bid systems are used in all sales involving more than ($500 stumpage value in the U. P. and $300 in the Lower Peninsula.) In some instances the bidding is done by public auction, while the sealed bid procedure is employed in others, depending on local circumstances.

"We originally employed the auction sale procedure exclusively in these public sales. In some places this resulted in the smaller operators being squeezed out, as the larger operators could consistently overbid them. At the same time the smaller operator in such localities was important, as he was interested in timber fragments and remnants that the larger operator would not consider. Therefore, under such circumstances we evolved the sealed bid procedure to give the smaller operator a fairer chance and to retain both types of operators in the same area for complete utilization purposes.

"In both types of auction sales, a so-called base price per cord or per 1,000 board feet or other unit is set and the amount bid is merely for the right to cut and pay for the material at the specified base rate.

Base Price Sale

"Another type of sale has been employed in a few instances. This is where the base price itself is determined by competitive bidding. In this procedure there is less of a gamble for the operator, as he knows from the start exactly what his stumpage is going to cost him per piece, per cord, or other unit. Where stand conditions offer only a few species, this type of sale is practical, but such conditions seldom occur over extensive areas.

"A fourth type is the bulk timber sale where a practically complete inventory of the timber is taken and the right to cut and remove all items specified is included in the single amount of the successful competitive sale bid.

"We have made a considerable study of the bulk sale method. Much timber on private land has changed hands in this way in the past. Pulpwood and other small round stuff is more difficult to treat in this way. There are advantages to the bulk but, after observing it for several years, whatever enthusiasm we originally had for it has cooled considerably. As a public agency we are definitely more vulnerable when the take from this kind of sale materially exceeds the sale estimate.

"The public sale, or competitive bid procedure tends to follow existing stumpage rates rather than to set them. Certainly every precaution should be taken to prevent public stumpage from contributing to distressed wood situations. Similarly, any action on our part that would force stumpage rates downward could be excusable only in event that going rates were unreasonably high. The timber sale policy of any public forest agency should be towards stabilization of price, market and supply, rather than the creation of excessive highs and lows.

"We do not know from a practical standpoint how much we are under-cutting certain species of wood on state forest lands. For the past 8 or 10 years there has been considerable rather loose talk on the large amount of aspen going to waste and for new pulp mills to utilize an alleged aspen surplus. On basis of past experience it would seem that under-consumption of our forest resource is, in general, apt to be much less disastrous than excessive drain."

Russian Medical Equipment Falls

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese Communist doctors and nurses don't think much of the medical tools they get from Russia, says a Japanese physician recently returned from Red captivity.

"They break down too often," says Dr. Katsuhide Akashi in a magazine article. "Russian syringes, for instance, don't stand boiling-disinfection and break down quickly."

"We says when instruments are broken, all concerned must take part in numerous "self-criticism conferences" and make "self-criticizing statements."

"Therefore," Akashi adds, "even the Chinese doctors and nurses just display the Russian things, but use American or Japanese-made things."

OPEN HOUSE—This sign, on the safe of the National Bowling and Billiards Co., of Vancouver, B.C., is designed to prevent damage to the safe. The company's office has been broken into five times in recent weeks, with the would-be thieves finding the safe too much for them. Helen Hall, office manager who put up the sign, shakes an empty cash box to make sure any burglars get only air.

Infant Kangaroo Gets Tender Care In Baltimore Zoo

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 10-inch baby kangaroo named Josie may not be able to get back in her own marsupial mother's pouch but she's getting plenty of tender loving care from the human race instead.

Josie was the first kangaroo ever born in the Baltimore Zoo. Her mother, apparently disgusted because Josie has a limp, expelled her from her home. Josie can't get back of her own accord. Arthur Watson, zoo director, has put her in the care of Mrs. Louella Earl, who feeds her with an eye dropper. And Dr. Robert P. Wagers, a veterinarian, has discovered the reason for the limp—a tendon has slipped out of place on one hind leg. He thinks it can be slipped back in place with the application of a cast.

BEGINNER'S LUCK

THE hand below had its humorous side—although East and West couldn't see it. The North player was a young woman who had lately learned the Blackwood convention—she said—but when it came time to answer her partner's four-notrump call, she had a lapse of memory, or something. (Perhaps it was simply an instance of the alleged feminine incapacity of counting up to one!) In any case, she gave out some very misleading information, but when it was all over it wasn't her partner who complained.

IN PARADE—The Manistique Drum and Bugle Corps, which last year won the 1954 Junior championship and the 1954 open parade championship at Calumet, will be one of the units marching in the big American Legion parade here today. Most stores will be closing for the gala event, one of the highlights of the 35th annual convention of the U. P. Association of American Legion posts and Auxiliaries which began here Thursday and continues through Sunday. In the above picture of the Drum and Bugle corps, which also plays and competes in A. F. Hall stadium at 7 p. m., are the following: left to right in front, John Moffatt, Harold Jones, Bill Manning, Joseph Nelson,

Two In Hospital After Accident

Mrs. Lyle Charron, of 223 East Elk St., and Melinda Rodgers, 170 N. Cedar St., are receiving treatment in Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital following an accident Friday afternoon on US-2, three-fourths mile west of Gulliver.

Mrs. Charron, 49, driver of one of the cars in the 2-car accident, has a fractured sternum, ribs and nose as well as lacerations of the face. She also was reported suffering from shock.

Melinda Rodgers, who was thrown from the auto driven by her father, has possible internal injuries of the upper abdomen, and abrasions of the face, neck and legs. She was temporarily unconscious following the accident.

Manistique State Police report a car driven by Harold Rodgers, 28, of 170 N. Cedar, made an improper turn as Mrs. Charron was returning from bringing her husband to work at Port Inland. The left front of the Charron car hit the left side of the Rodgers auto, causing extensive damage to both.

Rebecca Rodgers, 4, also a daughter of Harold Rodgers, was admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital following the accident, but examination revealed no injuries and she was released.

Rodgers has been ticketed for failure to yield right of way. The accident occurred at 1:05 p. m.

Manistique Plans To Participate In Blessing Of Fleet

Plans are being made here through the Knights of Columbus Council and other groups for entry of Manistique floats in the 7th annual Blessing of the Fleet at Fayette Harbor Aug. 7.

The ceremony this year will be preceded by a parade from St. Peter church, leading the Rt. Rev. Peter church, led by the Rt. Rev. Thomas L. Noa, bishop of Marquette, to Fayette Harbor for the blessing. Last year 42 crafts participated in the annual ceremony and even more are expected this year.

The Rev. Ronald J. Bassett, of Garden, is general chairman of arrangements. The ceremony and program are sponsored by St. Peter church at Fayette.

Merchants here who have entered floats in the American Legion parade today are being asked to keep them intact for use at Fayette in August.

Lowell Johnson of Negaunee, a star outfielder for the Western Michigan Broncos, is regarded as a good professional prospect. Johnson is one of the leading batters on the Western club that advanced to the finals of the college world series at Omaha this week. Maurice DeLoof, Boston Red Sox scout who lives in Detroit, says he has seen Johnson in action a number of times and is impressed with his ability. The Negaunee youngster has another year at Western.

This first year Red Sox first baseman Norm Zauchin, who was signed by DeLoof a few years back, recently put on one of the most sensational batting exhibitions ever seen in Boston's Fenway Park. On May 27, with the fans watching every move made by the famed Ted Williams who was returning to the home lineup for the first time, Zauchin stole the glory with three homers and a single to bat in 10 runs. He fanned his fifth time up, thereby failing to equal a rare major league record of four homers in one game. His RBI mark was two short of the all-time record of 12.

Jim Greenwood, the talented Holy Name second baseman, is apparently headed for Western Michigan this fall. Greenwood is considered the top baseball prospect in this area by the scouts who have seen him in action. He is not only a good athlete but a good student as well. He was on the honor roll for four straight years and had the third highest average among the boys in the 1955 graduating class at Holy Name.

There is no question who is the favorite American League outfielder of baseball fans in this area. Out of the more than 100 All-Star Game ballots returned to the Daily Press this week, Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers was named on all except three. And one of those three ballots listed only National League choices.

White Sox Win 2-1 To Move Up With Yankees

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
Those Chicago White Sox leave a pretty strong impression for a club that's supposed to be a weak sister expected to drop out of the American league race any minute now.

Manager Marty Marion's athletes, virtually the same bunch who failed before under Paul Richards, have generally been disregarded as a threat by first place New York, but after spilling the Yanks 2-1 Friday night, the Pale Hose are just two percentage points shy of the lead.

Cleveland, the team the Yanks figured they have to beat, is 2½ back, beating Boston 3-2 after losing 6-5 in the afternoon portion of a day-night twinnin.

Brooks Boost Lead
Fourth place Detroit was beaten 3-2 in 11 innings by Baltimore and Kansas City defeated Washington 4-2.

Brooklyn extended its National League lead to 11½ games again, breaking a two-game losing streak by walloping St. Louis 12-1 as Don Newcombe won his 11th. The runner-up Chicago Cubs were spilt by Philadelphia 3-2 while Milwaukee moved to within a game of third place New York by beating the Giants 5-4 in 10 innings. And Cincinnati, after beating Brooklyn two straight, lost to tail-end Pittsburgh 3-1.

Donovan Wins Eighth
Righthander Dick Donovan, who was sent packing by the old Boston Braves and Detroit Tigers in previous attempts at the big time, won his eighth against two defeats for the White Sox and drove the Yanks crazy with slow breaking stuff. He had a two-hitter and a 1-0 lead until Mickey Mantle belted his 15th homer to tie it in the eighth.

Then George Kell, the third baseman with the back miseries, fouled off Whitey Ford's attempt to give him an intentional pass on a 3-1 count and followed with a single that scored Nellie Fox with the winning run in the ninth.

Fox had gotten the fourth hit off Ford (7-3) to run his consecutive game streak to 13.

Consuegra Saves It
Marion then called in Sandy Consuegra, who has relieved in four of the Sox' last five games, to wrap it up after Irv Noren singled to open the Yank ninth.

Some 33,744 fans sat in on the Yankee stadium thriller—just a

Hurler-Shy Harnies Still In Hot Water

The big news on the local softball front this week was Harnischfeger's 16 to 0 defeat at the hands of Northland Bread last Tuesday night at Memorial Field, snapping the Harnies victory string at thirty-four.

In spite of the loss, the league leaders gained a game on second-place Paper Mill who lost a couple of one-run heartbreakers—5 to 4 to Clairmonts and 2 to 1 to the Dells.

Harnischfeger is expected to have trouble with Clairmonts in the first game Monday night unless the state champs come up with a pitcher in the next few days. Pat Moran is attending school at Marquette and John Pieropon is still ailing and may not be able to pitch for some time.

Northland Bread's bid for a first division berth will get a stiff test in the opener on Thursday evening when they face the Dells. The second game Thursday brings together the Paper Mill and Harn-ischfeger in the game of the week.

Babe Ruth Off To Good Start

Opening games in the local Babe Ruth League this week saw two of last year's second division teams come through with victories over last season's top teams. Insurance Association defeated L&R Sport Shop, 10 to 7, on Wednesday night and the Elks knocked off Labor Temple Association, 6 to 2, on Thursday evening.

The hard-hitting Kiwanis entry rapped out a 10 to 8 win over Paper Mill at the City Diamond on Tuesday night and established themselves as contenders for the league championship which has eluded them for the past three years.

The Elks, who shared the title in 1954 under the banner of the AFL Unions, look good enough to repeat mostly on the strength of their one-man pitching staff, Gene Sequin. Although Labor Temple lost their first league game, they look strong enough to come back and win most of their remaining games.

Insurance Association started off the season on the right foot by winning their first game and figure to give all the teams plenty of trouble before the schedule is completed.

Although Paper Mill has plenty of power they will have to improve their defense to keep the score within reaching distance. L&R Sport Shop is the dark horse of the season chase and with some good pitching they have a good chance to finish in the first division again.

The schedule for next week follows:

MONDAY—Elks vs. L&R at Webster at 6
TUESDAY—Insurance vs. Kiwanis at Webster at 6
WEDNESDAY—Paper Mill vs. Labor Temple at Webster at 6
SATURDAY—Elks vs. Insurance at Webster at 10; Paper Mill vs. L&R at City Diamond at 1; Labor Temple vs. Kiwanis at City Diamond at 3.

Shadow Of 'The Hawk' Lies Over Open Field As Hogan Nears Lead

By CHRIS EDMONDS
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The shadow of "The Hawk" lay over the National Open Golf Tournament again today.

Ben Hogan, the limping four-time champion dubbed "The Hawk" by his touring pro companions, was one stroke off the pace as the field of 58 squared away for the gruelling 36-hole finals of the 55th annual tournament.

Holding the lead, but looking over their shoulders at the man seeking an unprecedented fifth open title, were amateur Harvie Ward, Jr. of San Francisco and Tommy Bolt, each with 144.

Tied With Three
Hogan was bracketed with three others—two of them virtual unknowns on the golf circuit—with 145. Walker Inman Jr., of Augusta, Ga., and Jack Fleck of Davenport, Iowa, equalled Hogan's 36-hole total. So did Julius Boros, the 1952 open titleist.

Ward, who flew straight home from Scotland after helping America win the Walker Cup this year, fired a par 70 to reach the halfway mark with a share of the lead.

"I definitely have the edge going into the last round," the former University of North Carolina athlete said.

Winners Get $6,000
The purse for the tournament is $24,000, with winner pocketing $6,000. Endorsements and personal appearances, however, raise the winner's pot to thousands of dollars more than that.

It took a 155 to qualify for today's windup — and defending champion Ed Furgol just made it with that total.

Sam Snead, from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., coined a slick 69, 10 strokes better than his horrible first-day score, for a 148, and professed no further fears.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the masters' champion, made it, too, with a 154.

Westlake Will Report To Orioles On Sunday

BALTIMORE (AP)—General manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles said Friday night outfielder Wally Westlake, late of the Cleveland Indians, has notified him he would report here Sunday or Monday.

The Indians traded Westlake, outfielder Dave Pope and some cash to the Orioles shortly before swapping deadline Wednesday for outfielder Gene Woodling and infielder Billy Cox.

Westlake said earlier he hadn't decided whether to report to Baltimore.

There also was balking at the other end. Cox said he had decided to retire and went home to Newport, Pa.

Cox's reporting deadline is Sunday.

Braves Nip Giants 5-4 In 10 Innings

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves saw their lead wiped out twice Friday night, but George Crowe's double and Danny O'Connell's single brought them back in the 10th inning for a 5-4 verdict over the New York Giants.

The Giants scored three runs in the eighth inning to tie the count at 3-3 and they evened it once more at 4-4 in the ninth before reliever Ray Crone came in to halt them.

The loss was hung on Mary Grissom, fourth New York hurler, who gave up the two winning blows in the 10th.

Crone's good relief work earned him his first victory against one defeat. Grissom has a 2-1 record. New York .000 000 031 0-4 11. Milwaukee .000 100 210 1-3 10.1 Antonielli, Wilhelm (8), McCall (9), Grissom (9) and Westrum, Katt (9), Spahn, Crone (9) and Crandall, W.—Crone, L.—Grissom, Home Run—Milwaukee, Aaron.

Favorites Lead Trans-Miss List

DES MOINES (AP)—Another Jimmy Jackson-Rex Baxter duel for the Trans-Mississippi Golf Championship appeared in the making today.

With only eight players left, Jackson, the defending champion and Walker Cup player from St. Louis, and Baxter, the 19-year-old Houston University collegian and No. 1 Walker Cup alternate, were favored to march through the quarterfinals and semifinals.

If they do the expected in today's two rounds, they will meet in a 36-hole match Sunday.

Jackson, who Friday choked off a rally by Sarge Fontanini of Des Moines by sinking a 25-foot putt for a birdie 2 on the 17th hole to get a 1 up victory, was paired in the quarterfinals with George Lee, a Humboldt, Iowa, machinery salesman.

Lee came through with a 2 and 1 victory over 19-year-old Eddie Langert of Minneapolis by winning four of the last five holes.

After leading Fontanini four up at the end of 11 holes, Jackson lost four of the next five before his spectacular putt on the 17th saved him.

Baxter, down in the lower bracket, raced ahead with a 6 and 4 victory over Vince D'Antoni of St. Louis, the 1939 national collegiate champ. Rex had Bill Webb, 28-year-old Kansas City shooter, as his fourth round foe. Webb went one under par in eliminating Jim Vickers, Wichita, 3 and 2.

JOINS ALL-STAR
CHICAGO (AP)—Frank Varrichione, star lineman for Notre Dame the last three seasons, Friday agreed to play in the 22nd annual College All Star football game.

Undefeated Gladstone Seeking Fifth Victory

GLADSTONE—The undefeated Gladstone Redskins are out hunting their fifth straight victory in the Bay de Noc league when they clash with Trenary at Trenary Sunday afternoon.

Ray Menard, stellar moundsman who has hurled all four of Gladstone's victories, will again throw the slab. Receiving his slants will be Larry LaPlante with Paul Begovac at first base, Lowell LaPlante at second base, Roger Carlson at third base, J. C. Miller at shortstop, Dwight Arneson will be in right field, Lloyd Forvilly in center and Norman Butler in left field.

Melvin (Mook) Rothschild, who has been doing some outfielding for the Redskins, has quit playing to go umpiring.

The Redskins have chalked up four straight wins at the expense of Cornell, Garden, Cooks and Perkins and are confident they can add Trenary to their list of victims, according to Manager Dick Williamson.

Recreation League Baseball Schedule

The complete schedule for recreation league baseball next week follows:

Monday—Baseball instruction for Beginners at Royce Park at 9:30; Kiddie Korner vs. Paper Mill at Royce at 1.

Tuesday—St. Joe vs. Rotary at Royce Park at 9:30; Lions vs. Kiwanis at Royce at 10:30; Coca Cola Juniors vs. Chets at Royce at 1.

Wednesday—Baseball instruction for Beginners at Royce at 9:30; Kiddie Korner vs. Coca Cola Juniors at Royce at 1.

Thursday—St. Joe vs. Lions at Royce at 9:30; Kiwanis vs. Rotary at Royce at 10:30; Scott Dairy vs. Paper Mill at Royce at 1.

Friday—St. Joe vs. Kiwanis at Royce at 9:30; Rotary vs. Lions at Royce at 10:30; Coca Cola Cadets vs. Hurleys Hurricanes at Royce at 1.

Bears Host Barks In Sunday Clash

The young Escanaba Bears will face an old rival in the Tri County League Sunday afternoon when they entertain the Bark River Barks in a key clash at the City Diamond at 2:30.

Manager Wally Flath will start ace righthander Harlan Brietzman as the Bears shoot for their fourth straight Tri County victory.

Remainder of the Escanaba lineup will be intact with regulars at all posts. The team is composed mainly of ex-Escanaba Eskymo ball players.

Breiztman carried an impressive record into the Bark River clash. He was unbeaten in 14 straight high school starts for Coach Jim Rouman and hasn't lost a game in Tri County competition. Breiztman was on the mound as the Bears measured the Esky Cubs 7-0 this week in an exhibition contest.

Bark River will probably go with Ernie LaChapelle, veteran southpaw, on the hill. Manager Joe Rademacher will be available for relief if needed.

The Barks enter the Sunday clash with a record of two wins against two defeats, good for a tie for third place with Daggett and Perronville.

The Bears still have a makeup game to be played with Hardwood.

Same Sad End For Tigers Who Lose In Last Inning

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Detroit Tigers changed the scrip but couldn't alter the same sad ending, so they lost another ball game in the last half of the last inning Friday night.

The lowly Baltimore Orioles beat them, 3-2, although veteran Steve Gromek rattioned a mere six hits over the 11 innings, struck out 10 and walked just one man.

In only one inning did the Orioles get to Gromek for more than one hit—but, as has been the pattern on this road trip for the Tigers, the big inning for the home club was the last one the 11th.

Long Hit Does It
With one out, little Art Schallock, the second Baltimore pitcher, drilled a sharp single past Gromek. Then Chuck Diering, who had come in to play left field in the eighth inning, hit deep into the left field corner.

Jim Delsing couldn't find the handle as the ball bounced off the wall and Schallock raced all the way around to score.

This was the fourth straight game in which the Tigers have been ahead most of the way, and the third time out of four they've been beaten by do-or-die rallies.

Last night's battle was a pitching duel between Gromek and Don Johnson. Detroit edged ahead with a run in the fifth. With one out Harvey Kuenn, who had three hits for the night, doubled off the left field wall. Earl Torgeson popped out but Al Kaline beat out an infield single and Delsing followed with a single to center.

Baltimore tied it in the seventh on a lead-off home run by Wayne Causey, an 18-year-old bonus third baseman. It was his first major league homer.

The Tigers jumped in front again in the eighth on a squeeze play single by Fred Hatfield with Jim Tuittle on third base.

A pinch hit home run by Gil Coan in the eighth, his first of the season, knotted the score again.

The series with the Orioles continues with a single game today and a doubleheader Sunday.

Mark Olson Contender For World Roleo Title

MILWAUKEE (Special to Press)

The 1955 World's Championship Roleo will be held at Natatorium Park in Spokane, Wash., June 24-26, and top birlers from five of the United States and two Canadian provinces will compete in the 31st renewal of this log rolling classic.

Unique parallels prevail in both the men's and women's divisions, for three champions who have dominated each division head the entry contenders.

James Herron of Longview, Wash., is the defending men's champion, for he prevailed at the 1954 Roleo in Priest River, Idaho, to regain a title he won in Escanaba, Mich., in 1938 and defended in Gladstone, Mich. in 1941.

Leading Contenders

The leading contenders will be his brother Eddie of Kelso, Wash., 1947 winner at Gladstone; and Jim Running of Eau Claire, Wis., who won titles at Gladstone in 1942, 1948, 1949, '51 and 1952 and at Midland, Mich., in 1953. Unable to compete at Priest River, Running has not lost a world's championship birling match since his loss in the finals at Gladstone to Eddie Herron in 1947.

In the women's division, Charlotte Hansen of Toulte, Wash., won in 1954 defeating her sister Virginia at Priest River, Virginia had reigned for a year, after winning in the 1953 finals at Midland over Arbutus Lamoureux of Ladysmith, Wis. Mrs. Lamoureux, mother of two young daughters, won at Gladstone in 1949 and 1952.

While the log rolling drama of 1955 might well center around two Washington brothers, two Washington sisters and two former champions from Wisconsin, there remains a galaxy of contenders, many of whom rate top consideration.

Mark Olson Contender
Especially significant is the international aspect of the 1955 Roleo—for British Columbia will be represented by W. E. Baikie, Jubbi and Ardiel Wickheim; and, from clear across the North American continent, Nova Scotia will present Henry J. Peters and Laurence Wambolt in the men's division; and Mrs. La Wambolt and the Wambolt's teen-age daughters, Janet and Elizabeth, in the women's division.

Midwest hopes to regain the men's title will center on Running and Mark Olson of Escanaba. Olson has been a runner-up to Running on three occasions. A graduate of Michigan Tech, he captained that school's hockey team two years. Lawrence Bergeron of Cloquet, Minn., won the world's title in 1929.

In addition to the Herron brothers, Washington will send ten birlers, including Harold Hooper of Kelso, who placed second to Herron at Priest River. Others are Blair Acker and Russ Ellison, Aberdeen; Harley P. Michaels, Bob Craig and Sam Harris, Kelso; Charles Harris Jr., Tacoma; Roy Bartlett, Clarkston; Jay Swanson, Quilcene; and Charles and John Wikheim, Olalla. John Wikheim, at 14, is the youngest entry in the Roleo. California will send Elmer H. Swanson from San Fernando, a world's champion in 1934, he won the oldtimers' crown in 1954.

Mrs. Virginia Herron is a Kelso entry in the women's division.

Two Styles Used

Two distinct techniques will be used at the Spokane Roleo. The Midwest's Running and Olson specialize in control of the log, in a pit-a-pat style designed to outlast their foes. The top Far West borlers use a rough, long-stride technique, and "work" the log—cuffing, rolling and snubbing—with a view to forcing opponents into the water.

Best two falls out of three decide each match, and the Roleo is conducted on an elimination basis.

Natatorium Park is "Spokane's Playground" and includes a pool 75 feet wide by 150 feet long. Seating facilities for 3,000 spectators surround the pool, and it is lighted. Birlers will compete for championships, trophies in four divisions and upwards of $2,500 in prizes.

The event will be jointly conducted by the National Roleo Association, governing body of log birling, and Lloyd and Louis Vogel.

Four birling logs will be available. They are 13' in length and vary in diameters from Log I - 20", to Log II - 17", to Log III - 15", to Log IV - 14". Each log has a six-inch red center band, neutral zone; and six-inch blue warning bands, painted one inch from each end.

Mrs. Toennessen, Gulliver, Dies

Mrs. Jacob Toennessen, 37, widely known resident of Gulliver, died at 4:30 a. m. today at St. Mary's Hospital, Marquette, where she was a patient one week. She had been in failing health the past 10 months.

She was born, Florence Downen, in Fife Lake, Mich., May 17, 1918, and had lived in the Manistique area since she was three. She was a graduate of Manistique High School. Her marriage to Mr. Toennessen took place in Manistique May 17, 1937.

She was a member of the First Methodist Church of Manistique and was a former member of the Doyle Township school board.

Surviving are her husband, a son, Walter, and a daughter, Sandra, at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Downen of Gulliver; and two sisters, Mrs. Hazel Slack, Battle Creek, and Mrs. Kendall (Dorothy) Davy, Flint.

The body was taken to the Messier-Brouillere Funeral Home in Manistique where friends may call after 7:30 p. m. Sunday. Services will be held at the funeral home Tuesday at 2 p. m. and burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Army Enlistees Have Wide Choice Of Assignments

Sgt. John D'Antonio, U. S. Army recruiter in this area, announced today that vacancies currently exist in the different branches of the Army. These include the Adjutant Generals Corps, Army Medical Service, Chemical Corps, Military Police Corps Ordnance Corps, Quartermaster Corps, Signal Corps, Transportation Corps, Corps of Engineers, Armor, Artillery, Infantry Airborne (Paratroops) and persons desiring to go to Europe can enlist directly for the 3rd Armored Division and be sent to Ft. Knox, Ky. for basic training and assignment to this unit. They will

"If President," Says Governor

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, pumping rather gently to inflate his presidential election balloon, said here today that if his election should eventuate "I hope there are in the entire country organizations as strong as the MUCC, because many things need the good guiding hand of sportsmen's organizations."

The Governor spoke to this morning's session of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs convention in Bonifas Auditorium. His reference to the presidency was in acknowledging his introduction as the next president by Bernard W. Ansley, of Lansing, President of the MUCC.

Need Sportsmen
"We need the guiding hand of sportsmen's organizations," said Gov. Williams, "because there is all too much encroaching on the public lands that would give future generations the joys that we have known."

"As I fly over Michigan I sometimes think of the tremendous spaces for enjoyment, but as we see the tremendous increase in population, we get the impression that cities are beginning to spread over all the land. As the highways are improved there is going to be more and more encroachment on the green land that means so much to us.

Laud Use Policy
"Everyone is going to use the land to his own best interests, but it is easier to see our own interest than that of all the people and sometimes we have to look to enlightened interest on the part of the state so the public will be provided for and so the people who have little opportunity to own land can have the strengthening aspects of that sort of life.

"The solution is to have sufficient public lands so that our children and grandchildren will have opportunity to know all the things we have known and loved. There is always a tug between development of what land we have and buying more land, but the state is going to grow and it is going to be more and more expensive to acquire lands. We need more funds so we can both develop and purchase public lands."

Bering Strait is named for Vitus Bering, a Russian explorer, who discovered it in 1728.

Camp Fire Girls Hold Cook-Out

Nowetopotimmin Camp Fire group held a three-meal cookout with breakfast at Ludington Park and lunch and dinner at Wells State Park. Swimming and sunbathing were on the program for the day.

Girls completing their honors toward Wood Gatherers rank are Mary Flath, Mary Louise Johnson, Sandra Hagman, Janis Snow and Judy Walsh. Nancy LaPorte currently is working toward Trail Seekers rank.

The girls were accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Adolph Johnson, assistant leader, Mrs. Ralph Walsh, and Mrs. Ray LaPorte.

Briefly Told

Former 'Stique Resident Killed

MANISTIQUE—Malcolm VanDyk Miller, 29, of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoholik of Indian Lake, died at Mercy Hospital at Mount Mary, Ohio, following an auto collision near Cincinnati Friday. Miller collided headon with another car which had swung out to pass a truck. A passenger in the other car was also killed.

Born Aug. 29, 1925 in Northampton, Mass., "Mickey", as he was known to local residents, lived in Manistique from the age of one year until three years ago. Miller attended Manistique High School through his junior year and graduated from St. Norbert's High School at DePere, Wis. He was a member of St. Francis de Sales Church. He was a sales engineer for Dorr Oliver and Company in the Merchandise Mart at Chicago.

His wife, who survives, is the former Doris Lockwood of Gulliver. In addition, he leaves three daughters, Diane of Chicago, and Susan and Linda, Manistique; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoholik, Indian Lake, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph VanDyk, Dunedin, Fla.

The body is expected to arrive Monday morning at the Kefauver-Jackson Funeral Home where friends may begin calling Monday evening.

Funeral services are tentatively set for 9 a. m. Tuesday at St. Francis de Sales Church. Burial will be made in Fairview Cemetery.
